

Anomalies

Foreign Exchange

Kenneth A. Froot and Richard H. Thaler

Economics can be distinguished from other social sciences by the belief that most (all?) behavior can be explained by assuming that agents have stable, well-defined preferences and make rational choices consistent with those preferences in markets that (eventually) clear. An empirical result qualifies as an anomaly if it is difficult to “rationalize,” or if implausible assumptions are necessary to explain it within the paradigm. This column will present a series of such anomalies. Readers are invited to suggest topics for future columns by sending a note with some reference to (or better yet copies of) the relevant research. Comments on anomalies printed here are also welcome. The address is: Richard Thaler, c/o Journal of Economic Perspectives, Johnson Graduate School of Management, Malott Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY 14853.

Introduction

The one person in your family who ever asks your advice about economics is your uncle, who is in the import-export business. A while back he called you about a foreign exchange issue. “Let’s suppose I owe a million German marks, payable in one month,” he said. “We have the money to pay the bill in dollars, so the issue is whether to put the money into marks now or later. I figure we should put the money wherever it would earn the highest rate, but my treasurer, one of those MBA hot shots, tells me that this is irrelevant because if the interest rate is high in Germany that means that the mark is expected to go down. When I ask her what we should do, she says that it doesn't matter. 'Flip a coin,' she says! Is this what I am paying her so much money for? To flip coins?" You tried to calm your uncle down, and explain the idea of efficient markets to him, but he was unconvinced. "OK," you told him, "if you think you can do better, why don't you run an experiment. You invest some of your money your way, while your treasurer flips coins, and then see who does better." He thought this was a great idea, and promised to let you know what happens.

■ Kenneth A. Froot is Visiting Assistant Professor of Finance at the Harvard Business School and Associate Professor of Economics at the Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Richard H. Thaler is the Henrietta Johnson Louis Professor of Economics at the Johnson School of Management, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

Much to your surprise, your uncle called back recently. He claims to have a strategy that beats his coin-flipping treasurer. "Here's what I do," he crowed. "When interest rates rise in other countries I put my money there, and take my chances on the currency falling. On the other hand, if rates in the foreign country fall relative to U.S. rates, I keep my money here. It's simple, I admit, but it seems to be working. Of course, my treasurer claimed it was just luck, and said she would do some testing with historical data to prove her point. Well, she just came sheepishly into my office with piles of computer output and has agreed my theory beats her coin flipping. What do you think of this, wise guy?" Baffled, you decide to look into the literature on foreign exchange rates.

* * *

The foreign exchange market is among the most active of all financial markets. As of mid-1989, the average volume of trading activity (adjusted for double counting) was about $430 billion per day. To get a sense for just how big this number is, consider that daily U.S. GNP is about $22 billion, and daily world trade in goods and services is about $11 billion. Since foreign exchange trading is so much greater in volume than is trade in real goods and services, foreign exchange markets would seem to be highly liquid and efficient.

Partly as a result of the sheer volume of trading, many researchers have focused on the foreign exchange market to examine questions of speculative efficiency. One view—argued initially by Friedman (1953)—is that because speculators buy low and sell high their activity ensures that exchange rates reflect the fundamental or long-run determinants of currency values. A second strand of literature, often attributed to Nurske (1944), holds that speculation in foreign exchange can be destabilizing, and that excess volatility imposes large costs on producers and consumers who as a consequence makes less efficient allocative decisions.

Recently this debate has escalated, as both sides try to come to grips with the dramatic, temporary 65 percent appreciation in the value of the dollar during the mid-1980s.<sup>1</sup> Some hold that these swings in the dollar's value were attributable to changes in fundamentals, and that given those fundamentals the appreciation was both predictable and optimal. Others, however, point to the experience as evidence of a capricious delinking of the dollar from its usual determinants, and argue that at least some of the dollar's appreciation could have been prevented beneficially. The debate about whether exchange rates are "correctly priced" is particularly important (in comparison to similar debates about the pricing of other assets) since the exchange rate simultaneously affects the prices of all foreign assets, goods, and factors of production. If Nurske's followers are right that speculation drives prices away from fundamentals, then the argument for intervention might be considered strongest in the market for foreign exchange.

<sup>1</sup>For a discussion of the performance of exchange rate models over this period, see Meese (1990).

In what follows, we discuss the efficiency of foreign exchange markets. Readers interested in more complete treatments should refer to Mussa (1979), Levich (1985), Boothe and Longworth (1986), Hodrick (1987), and Froot (1990). To manage what would otherwise be an enormous task, the question of efficiency is viewed below from the perspective of a single type of test: the test for what is called the forward discount bias. This test is easy to understand, and since it strongly rejects the null hypothesis, statistical power is not an issue. Naturally, in discussing this particular test we mention a variety of other empirical work designed to shed light on alternative explanations of the results.

Tests of Forward Discount Bias

If investors are risk neutral and have rational expectations, then the market's forecast of the future exchange rate is implicit in international differences in interest rates. To see this, suppose that the one-year dollar interest rate is 10 percent, and that the comparable German mark interest rate is 7 percent. The dollar interest differential is then said to be 3 percent. Risk neutral, rational investors then must expect the dollar to depreciate against the mark by 3 percent over the next year. This amount of depreciation would be just enough to equalize the expected returns on dollar and mark denominated deposits. If instead these investors expected a different rate of dollar depreciation, say 4 percent, they would all wish to borrow in dollars and lend in marks. Consequently, dollar interest rates would tend to rise and mark interest rates would tend to fall until the interest differential also became 4 percent. This simple relationship between interest differentials and expected currency depreciation is called uncovered interest parity (uncovered because forward markets are not used as a hedge). Thus, uncovered interest parity implies that the interest differential is an estimate of the future exchange rate change. If expectations are rational, then this estimate of future exchange rate changes provided by the interest differential should be unbiased.

Unbiasedness is usually tested by regressing the change in the exchange rate on the interest differential, where  $\Delta s_{t+k}$  is the percentage depreciation of the currency (the change in the log of the spot dollar price of foreign exchange) over  $k$  periods and  $(i_t - i_t^*)$  is the current  $k$ -period dollar interest rate less the  $k$  period foreign interest rate. The null hypothesis is that  $\beta = 1$ . Some authors include  $\alpha = 0$  in the null hypothesis as well. In other words, the realized depreciation of the spot rate is equal to the interest differential plus a purely random error term,  $\eta_{t+k}$ .

$$(1) \quad \Delta s_{t+k} = \alpha + \beta(i_t - i_t^*) + \eta_{t+k},$$

A second specification of equation (1) replaces the interest differential by the forward discount; that is, the percentage difference between the current forward and spot exchange rates. (The forward rate is today's dollar price of foreign exchange to be delivered on a specific date in the future.) By arbitrage, the forward discount must equal the interest differential. If it did not, then a strategy of borrowing in the foreign currency, changing the proceeds into dollars, investing those dollars and then selling them forward would yield a riskless profit. Most observers agree that the market respects this arbitrage condition, as banks allow forward rates to be set by interest differentials. Under risk neutrality and rational expectations, the forward discount should also be an unbiased estimate of the subsequent exchange rate change. Indeed, the failure of regressions such as (1) to yield estimates of  $\beta = 1$  is often referred to as the forward discount bias.

A very large literature has tested the unbiasedness hypothesis and found that the coefficient  $\beta$  is reliably less than one. In fact,  $\beta$  is frequently estimated to be less than zero. The average coefficient across some 75 published estimates is  $-0.88$  (Froot, 1990). A few are positive, but not one is equal to or greater than the null hypothesis of  $\beta = 1$ .

A coefficient of approximately minus one is difficult to explain. It implies that, for example, when U.S. interest rates exceed foreign rates by one percentage point, the dollar subsequently tends to appreciate at an annual rate of one percent. This is in contrast to the one percent depreciation dictated by the unbiasedness hypothesis.

Two interpretations of these results are common in the literature. Some authors argue that  $\beta < 1$  is evidence of a time-varying risk premium on foreign exchange: when the dollar interest rate rises, investments in dollar assets become relatively more risky.<sup>2</sup> Alternatively, others assume that exchange rate risk is purely diversifiable or that investors are risk neutral. They therefore interpret any bias as evidence of expectational errors. The next two sections evaluate the merit of these two types of explanations.

Exchange Risk Premia

If investors in foreign exchange markets are risk averse, and if foreign exchange risk is not fully diversifiable, then the interest differential or forward discount can no longer be interpreted as a pure estimate of the expected change in future exchange rates. Rather, the interest differential is the sum of the expected change in the exchange rate plus a risk premium. Thus, if the dollar is viewed as riskier than the foreign currency, dollar interest rates would have to be higher, even if the exchange rate is not expected to change. If the assumption of rational expectations is maintained, then a finding of  $\beta \neq 1$  implies that interest rate movements are related to changes in the risk premium. In particular, a finding of  $\beta < 1$  implies that a 1 percent increase in the dollar interest differential is associated with a less than 1 percent expected drop in the value of the dollar. Since the risk premium is just equal to the interest differential less the expected change in exchange rates, this implies that the risk premium on dollar assets must rise with the interest differential, or equivalently, the required return on foreign exchange must fall.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>2</sup>Similarly, the results would then also imply that when the foreign interest rate rises (relative to the dollar interest rate), investments in foreign assets become relatively more risky.

Naturally, a finding of  $\beta < 0$  is more extreme: an increase in the interest differential is then associated with a decline in expected depreciation (since the dollar subsequently appreciates on average) and therefore with an even larger rise in the risk premium. As Fama (1984) pointed out, this implies that the variance of the risk premium is greater than the variance of both expected depreciation and the interest differential, and that the covariance of expected depreciation and the risk premium is negative.

By itself, a negative correlation between expected depreciation and the risk premium might be considered plausible: higher expected inflation in the United States might sensibly be associated with both greater expected dollar depreciation and increased riskiness of dollar-denominated assets (Hodrick and Srivastava, 1986). This would be the case if, for example, higher expected inflation reflects greater uncertainty about the future course of monetary policy. The real problem for explanations based on risk premia is whether they can explain why a change in interest rates should produce an even larger change in risk premia. Three approaches have been advanced to evaluate the merit of the risk-premium interpretation—none of which offer the hypothesis much support.

The first approach specifies and tests what one might call “statistical” models of risk. Rather than exploring whether underlying economic determi<sup>3</sup>Readers may find it difficult to understand how assets denominated in one currency can be riskier than assets denominated in the other currency when there is only a single exchange rate to connect them. The following example may help. Suppose that two equally-sized countries have perfectly integrated trade in goods and assets. Each produces its own good, but consumes both goods in equal amounts. Each country also has an asset which pays off in future consumption of its good. Now suppose that country A's asset represents claims to a greater fraction of country A's good than B's asset represents of country B's good. In other words, the outstanding supply of country A's asset is larger than country B's. Since investors will consume the same amount of each good, all else equal, they will want to invest half of their portfolio in the assets of each country. Investors will agree to hold a greater fraction of their portfolio in the assets of county A—as they must in equilibrium—only if they get paid a premium on the return of A's asset relative to B's. In such a case, we would say that assets denominated in A's goods are “riskier” than those denominated in B's.

nants of risk can help explain excess returns on foreign exchange, this approach tests for certain patterns in or across excess currency returns. While this class of tests has provided rich information about the predictable components of exchange rate changes, it has not provided much evidence that these components are actually attributable to risk. Another statistical test asks whether predictable returns can be explained by the expected variance in future returns. This kind of test may, in principle, be more able to distinguish between risk and expectational errors. In practice, however, there is no evidence that measures of expected variance are related to the forward discount bias. Domowitz and Hakkio (1985) present evidence that one such measure of expected future variance, computed using a model of autoregressive conditional heteroskedasticity (ARCH), is uncorrelated with the forward discount's bias.<sup>4</sup>

A second strand of tests for the exchange risk premium looks beyond relative asset returns themselves and examines various specifications of the fundamental determinants of required returns. One approach, taken initially by Frankel (1982), notes that the capital asset pricing model (CAPM) requires an asset's risk premium to be systematically related to that asset's value share in investors' portfolios. His tests provide no evidence that required returns are positively related to systematic risk in exchange rates. Indeed, using these models it is not possible to reject the hypothesis that the systematic risk is zero; that is, that the exchange risk premium is zero. There is no evidence here that risk premia vary in a way that can explain predictable excess returns in foreign exchange (Frankel and Engel, 1984; Hodrick, 1987). Later work has examined more complex models of time-varying risk, but with similar results (Engel and Rodrigues, 1989; Giovannini and Jorion, 1989; Mark, 1985; Obstfeld, 1990).

The third approach for assessing the risk-premium interpretation attempts to measure expected depreciation directly, thereby avoiding reliance on inferences from realized depreciation. If one could actually observe expectations it would be possible to decompose the interest differential's bias into separate components attributable to risk premia and to expectational errors. This would not tell us how the risk premium is formed, but it could tell us the importance of risk and market efficiency in explaining the bias.

The problem, of course, is that market expectations are not observable. However, by gathering independent measures of expectations, one might nevertheless hope to gain insights. Froot and Frankel (1989) use survey data on the expectations of foreign exchange traders as their independent measure of expected depreciation. If the survey expectations are accepted as a measure of expected depreciation, then the bias in the interest differential can be decomposed into a risk premium and a bias in expectations. When this decomposition is performed, the component attributable to risk turns out to be small and insignificantly different from zero. This is not to say that the surveys don't contain a risk premium, as would be true if the surveys were always equal to the interest rate differential. In fact, the risk premia implied by the surveys are substantially different from zero and move over time. However, these survey risk premia are uncorrelated with the forward discount.

<sup>4</sup>Another statistical model of exchange rate changes is presented by Engel and Hamilton (1990). They find evidence of "long swings" in the exchange rate and can reject the hypothesis that the exchange rate follows a random walk, but are also unable to find any correlation between their model's predictions and the forward discount's bias.

Finally, we might put the alternative hypothesis of a time-varying risk premium to a more informal sensibility check, asking how it would explain the unprecedented behavior of the dollar in the 1980s. From late 1980 until early 1985, dollar interest rates were above foreign rates so the dollar sold at a forward discount, implying that the value of the dollar should fall. However, the dollar appreciated (more or less steadily) at a rate of about 13 percent per year. Under the risk-premium scenario, these facts would suggest that investors' (rational) expectation of dollar appreciation was strongly positive (perhaps even the full 13 percent), but that the risk premium was also positive. Therefore, according to this view, dollar-denominated assets were perceived to be much riskier than assets denominated in other currencies, exactly the opposite of the "safe-haven" hypothesis which was frequently offered at that time as an explanation for the dollar's strength.

The subsequent rapid fall in the value of the dollar would conversely imply a reversal in the risk premium's sign, as investors in 1985 switched to thinking of the dollar as relatively safe. Something very dramatic must have happened to the underlying determinants of currency risk to yield such enormous swings in the dollar's value: during the appreciation investors must have been willing to give up around 16 percent per year (13 percent from dollar appreciation plus 3 percent from an interest differential in favor of the dollar) in order to hold the "safer" foreign currency, whereas during the later depreciation phase they must have been willing to forego about 6 percent in additional annual returns (8 percent average annual depreciation minus the 2 percent average interest differential) in order to hold dollars. These premia are very large. It is hard to see how one could rely on the risk-premium interpretation alone to explain the dollar of the 1980s.<sup>5</sup>

Expectational Errors

The other main alternative hypothesis is that expectational errors explain the bias in the forward discount and the interest differential. Under this alternative the risk premium is constant (or at least uncorrelated with the forward discount). It follows that an increase in the interest differential is associated with an equivalent increase in expected depreciation. Yet the print estimates above suggest that a 1 percent increase in the interest differential tends to be followed by a 1 percent appreciation in the value of the dollar. How could such expectational errors arise, and how could they persist?

<sup>5</sup>These conclusions can be softened by arguing that investors were repeatedly surprised at the strength (and subsequent weakness) of fundamentals over this period. Rationally expected appreciation (and depreciation) and estimates of the risk premium would then be closer to zero than calculated above. We address such explanations directly in the next section.

Even if such expectational errors appear after the fact to be economically significant for the period studied, they may not imply that market inefficiency or unexploited profit opportunities existed beforehand. Perhaps the period studied was unrepresentative, in which case the usual methods of statistical inference may lead to incorrect conclusions. If investors are in the process of learning about floating exchange rates or other regime changes, then exchange rate changes will be affected by the learning. Lewis (1989) explores whether an explanation of this sort can explain the persistence of the 1980-85 dollar appreciation. She presents evidence that investors' slow learning about an unobservable shift in the U.S. money supply process can explain about half of the error implicit in the forward rate.<sup>6</sup> However, as Lewis notes, the errors do not seem to have died out over time, which is evidence against models of learning about once-and-for-all shifts in regime.

Another example which would generate misleading inferences from regressions is that of "peso problems." This term derives from the 1955-76 Mexican peso, which was fixed by the Mexican government at a constant rate against the U.S. dollar, yet all the while sold at a forward discount. Of course, the large depreciation apparently expected by investors did eventually occur, validating the prediction from interest rates and the forward market—but one could not have guessed this from the 1955-75 sample alone (Rogoff, 1979). In these as well as less extreme circumstances, peso problems will invalidate standard statistical inference procedures.

Michael Mussa has suggested why peso problems might indeed be expected to plague regressions of the type we have been discussing. He argues that the distribution of inflation rates is skewed: most of the time inflation hovers in a restricted range, but occasionally hyperinflation breaks out. For periods in which no hyperinflation actually occurs, increases in expected inflation overpredict the subsequent realized inflation rate. Since such increases in expected inflation are likely to be associated with increases in nominal interest rates and expected depreciation, the  $\beta$  coefficients will be less than one in more than half of the regression samples.

We can evaluate whether the peso problem is a reasonable explanation for the dollar of the early 1980s by using a skewness argument similar to that proposed by Mussa. During the 1980-85 period the dollar was above its 1980 level by an average of about 33 percent, and appreciated at an average annual rate of 13 percent. Suppose that the market did indeed expect the dollar to appreciate at 13 percent per year if it appreciated at all, but that the alternative was an expected collapse back to its 1980 level.<sup>7</sup> Expected depreciation would then be equal to the probability of collapse,  $\pi$ , times the average size of the expected collapse, 33 percent, minus the probability of appreciation,  $1 - \pi$ , times the amount of appreciation 13 percent. If we assume that expected depreciation was the 3 percent given by the interest differential, then the probability of collapse in any one year is:  $\pi = (13 + 3)/(13 + 33) = 35$  percent. This would imply that the probability that the exchange rate went five years without collapsing was  $(1 - \pi)^5 = .12$ . If we take this computation seriously, the result suggests that the peso-problem hypothesis is unlikely to be true, although it cannot be rejected at standard levels of statistical significance.<sup>8,9</sup>

<sup>6</sup>See also Stulz (1986) for a model of learning about the money supply process.

The bias in the interest differential seems less severe for certain types of fluctuations in interest rates. Tests of the bias during the buildup to hyperinflations, in which nominal interest rates move from being small to very large, show  $\beta$ s that are positive and nearer one. In addition, casual inspection of cross-sectional evidence suggests that interest differentials lead to reasonable predictions: high-inflation countries, such as Italy, typically have had higher nominal interest rates than the U.S., and their currencies indeed did tend to depreciate secularly. Just the reverse has been true for the currencies of low-inflation countries such as West Germany which has had relatively low interest rates. In other words, the average level of the interest differentials points the right way in forecasting long-run currency changes, even though the short-run correlations usually point the wrong way in forecasting near-term exchange rate changes.

Nevertheless, the preponderance of evidence that  $\beta$  is less than one across different subsamples, currencies, forecast horizons, and asset markets, coupled with the near rejection of the peso explanation of the behavior of the dollar in the early 1980s casts some doubt on the validity of learning and peso problems. To keep these explanations intact, one would need to argue that there is little independence across these many estimates of  $\beta$ . Perhaps there is the possibility of some important event that has not yet occurred—like complete nuclear annihilation—that somehow conditions investors' expectations in such a way as to create the appearance of bias. As the time-series and cross-sectional size of the statistical sample continues to increase, however, such arguments become increasingly strained.

<sup>7</sup>Some support for such skewness in investor's subjective distribution of exchange rate changes can be obtained from the prices of options on the dollar during this period. See Bates (1988) for evidence.

<sup>8</sup>This sort of calculation was performed originally by Dornbusch (1982), Frankel (1982) and Krugman (1989). The dollar's collapse could be thought of as coming from a discrete shift in policy, or from the bursting of a speculative bubble.

<sup>9</sup>The survey data discussed in Frankel and Froot (1987) report expected depreciation to be about 10 percent on average during this period, much larger than the interest differential which averaged about 3 percent. If we were to use this larger number in the above calculation, the probability of observing no collapse for five consecutive years falls to .03. That is, if investors expected more rapid dollar depreciation, it becomes easier to reject this peso problem argument. Keep in mind, however, a caveat about such casually formed test statistics: their size may overstate their true statistical significance because the 1980–85 subsample is not randomly drawn. See Evans (1986) for more formal methods.

A Possible Explanation

The primary conclusions reached so far have been negative: a rational efficient markets paradigm provides no satisfactory explanation for the observed results. Perhaps the best we can do is to offer a simple and parsimonious explanation, one that has other testable restrictions but does not require full rationality of all investors. Consider as an example, the hypothesis that at least some investors are slow in responding to changes in the interest differential. It may be that these investors need some time to think about trades before executing them, or that they simply cannot respond quickly to recent information. These investors might also be called “central banks,” who seem to “lean against the wind” by trading in such a way as to attenuate the appreciation of a currency as interest rates increase. Other investors in the model are fully rational, albeit risk averse, and even may try to exploit the first group’s slower movements.<sup>10</sup>

A simple story along these lines has the potential for reconciling the above facts. First, it yields negative coefficient estimates of  $\beta$  as long as some changes in nominal interest differentials also reflect changes in real interest differentials. While changes in nominal interest rates have different instantaneous effects on the exchange rate across different exchange-rate models, most of these models predict that an increase in the dollar real interest rate (all else equal) should lead to instantaneous dollar appreciation. If only part of this appreciation occurs immediately, and the rest takes some time, then we might expect the exchange rate to appreciate in the period subsequent to an increase in the interest differential. Hence the possibility of a negative relationship between short-run changes in interest rates and exchange rates. Second, this hypothesis can also explain the cross-sectional and hyperinflation results, in which the interest differential correctly forecasts secular exchange rate changes. Short lags in the responsiveness of some investors would not affect the long-term relationship between interest differentials and exchange rate changes. A test of this hypothesis could be based on the additional implication that past (not just current) levels of the forward discount should help in predicting exchange rate changes. In fact, this hypothesis suggests that if past levels of the interest differential are added to equation (1), the estimated coefficient should be positive and near one. Froot (1990) presents evidence which is supportive of this latter implication.

Such an explanation (which stresses the lack of “efficiency” in the usual sense) seems to fit the facts well enough, but has an apparently serious flaw:

<sup>10</sup>For examples of such models see Cutler, Poterba, and Summers (1990) and Kyle (1985).

isn't there money to be made by trading on contemporaneous interest rate changes? The empirical case for foreign-exchange market efficiency was made forcefully by Bilson (1981). He argued that the speculative rule suggested by the finding of  $\beta < 1$ —buy the currency whose interest rate is relatively high—could actually provide expected profits without bearing much risk.<sup>11</sup>

Dooley and Shafter (1983) and Sweeney (1986) also examine several types of “filter rules:” trading strategies that are triggered by the past behavior of spot rates. A typical filter rule might specify that an investor should sell the dollar short if the dollar has appreciated by more than 2 percent the last 24 hours. Such rules appear profitable, although the profits are not always statistically significant. Also, Schulmeister (1987) and Cumby and Modest (1987) study a number of trading rules derived from technical analysis and find that these rules generate statistically significant profits.

Whether or not there is really money to be made based on the apparent inefficiency of foreign exchange markets, it is worth emphasizing that the risk-return tradeoff for a single currency is not very attractive. The annualized standard error of the regression estimates of equation (1) is about 36 percent. This implies that a strategy that generates expected profits of \$1 comes with a standard deviation of profits of \$15. To see this, note that with  $\beta = -1$ , a one percentage point increase in the dollar interest rate is associated with an additional two percent higher annual return on dollar assets than on foreign assets. On a monthly basis, a \$500 investment therefore yields about \$1 in expected profit,  $(\$500 \times .02)/12 \approx \$1$ —ignoring compounding. The standard error of profits is then  $(\$500 \times .36)/12 = \$15$ . With transactions costs, the risk-return tradeoff becomes even less favorable. Although much of the risk in these strategies may be diversifiable in principle, more complex diversified strategies may be much more costly, unreliable, or difficult to execute.

Commentary

Anomalies in financial markets are often “explained” by economists with the use of some type of risk argument. For example, small firms which earn higher returns than large firms are said to be riskier, though differentials in traditional risk measures such as capital asset pricing model beta's are not high enough to explain the differentials in returns. Similarly, mean reversion in asset prices is often attributed to alleged time-varying risk premia; the amount of risk investors are willing to bear is said to vary over time in a manner that can explain the pattern of returns. Such explanations are often thought to have a decisive debating advantage: untestability. Since risk premia are unobservable directly, how can the explanation ever be disproven? This type of thinking can lead to a false sense of security, because clever researchers often think of ways of testing such untestable propositions. An analogy is concept of utility maximization, often considered an untestable tautology. However, as discussed in the previous column (Tversky and Thaler, 1990), subjects can be induced to make conflicting choices when faced with two different versions of the same problem, and of course it is impossible for both answers to be consistent with utility maximization.

<sup>11</sup>Hodrick and Srivastava (1984) report less favorable risk-return tradeoffs using Bilson's (1981) data.

As we have seen in this column, researchers in foreign exchange markets have been inventive in devising methods of testing whether risk can explain the anomalies. Indeed, the conclusion we draw from the tests completed so far is that there is no positive evidence that the forward discount's bias is due to risk (as opposed to expectational errors). Risk premia which are derived from economists' asset pricing models show no sign of being systematically related to the predictable excess returns derived from econometricians' regressions.

In addition, there is positive evidence which suggests the reverse: that the bias is attributable to expectational errors and not to risk. Attempts to separate the forward discount into expected depreciation and a risk premium using survey data on exchange rate expectations suggest that the bias is entirely due to expectational errors and that none is due to time-varying risk. While such a decomposition cannot itself shed light on whether the expectational errors are generated by learning, peso problems, or by market inefficiency, neither learning nor peso problems seem to offer complete explanations of the facts. Taken as a whole, the evidence suggests that explanations which allow for the possibility of market inefficiency should be seriously investigated.

What are the policy implications of the apparent market inefficiency in foreign exchange markets? Because the evidence for inefficiency is ambiguous, and because there exists no good general equilibrium model of exchange rates, we can say little about whether exchange rate fluctuations are costly enough to merit government intervention. Although the kind of inefficiency discussed above can lead to very large distortions in the level of the exchange rate, interventions such as transactions taxes or an exchange rate peg also involve costs to welfare. Future research may help to determine how consumers and producers are affected by the use of such blunt policy instruments.

■ The authors wish to thank Robert Cumby, Charles Engel, Jeffrey Frankel, Kenneth Kasa, Timothy Luerhman, Robert Hodrick, Karen Lewis, Michael Mussa, Maurice Obstfeld, and Andre Perold for helpful comments and the Division of Research at Harvard Business School (Froot) and Concord Capital Management and the Russell Sage Foundation (Thaler) for generous financial support.

References

- Bates, David, "The Crash Premium: Option Pricing under Asymmetric Processes, with Applications to Options on Deutsche Mark Futures," Rodney L. White Discussion Paper 36-88, University of Pennsylvania, October, 1988.
- Bilson, John, "The Speculative Efficiency Hypothesis," Journal of Business, 1981, 54, 433-451.
- Boothe, Paul, and David Longworth, "Foreign Exchange Market Efficiency Tests: Implications of Recent Findings," Journal of International Money and Finance, 1986, 5, 135-52.
- Cumby, Robert, and David Modest, "Testing for Market Timing Ability: A Framework for Forecast Evaluation," Journal of Financial Economics, 1987, 169-89.
- Cutler, David M., James M. Poterba, Lawrence H. Summers, "Speculative Dynamics and the Role of Feedback Traders," American Economic Review, May 1990.
- Domowitz, Ian, and Craig Hakkio, "Conditional Variance and the Risk Premium in the Foreign Exchange Market," Journal of International Economics, 1985, 19, 47-66.
- Dooley, Michael P., and Jeff Shafer, "Analysis of Short-Run Exchange Rate Behavior: March 1983 to November 1981." In Bigman, D., and T. Taya, ed., Exchange Rate and Trade Instability: Causes, Consequences, and Remedies. Cambridge: Ballinger, 1983.
- Dornbusch, Rudiger, "Equilibrium and Disequilibrium Exchange Rates," Zeitschrift für Wirtschafts und Sozialwissenschaften, 1982, 6, 573-99.
- Engel, Charles M., and James Hamilton, "Long Swings in the Foreign Exchange Market: Are They There, and Do Investors Know it?," American Economic Review, 1990.
- Engel, Charles M., and Anthony P. Rodrigues, "Tests of International CAPM with Time-Varying Covariances," Journal of Applied Econometrics, 1989, 4, 119-38.
- Evans, George W., "A Test for Speculative Bubbles in the Sterling-Dollar Exchange Rate: 1981-84," American Economic Review, September 1986, 76, 621-636.
- Fama, Eugene F., "Forward and Spot Exchange Rates," Journal of Monetary Economics, 1984, 36, 697-703.
- Frankel, Jeffrey A., "A Test of Perfect Substitutability in the Foreign Exchange Market," Southern Economic Journal, 1982, 48, 406-16.
- Frankel, Jeffrey A., and Charles M. Engel, "Do Asset Demand Functions Optimize over the Mean and Variance of Real Returns? A Six Currency Test," Journal of International Economics, 1984, 17, 309-323.
- Frankel, Jeffrey A., and Kenneth A. Froot, "Using Survey Data to Test Standard Propositions on Exchange Rate Expectations," American Economic Review, March 1987, 77, 133-153.
- Friedman, Milton, "The Case for Flexible Exchange Rates." In his Essays in Positive Economics. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1953, 157-203.
- Froot, Kenneth A., "Short Rates and Expected Asset Returns," NBER Working paper No. 3247, January 1990.
- Froot, Kenneth A., and Jeffrey A. Frankel, "Forward Discount Bias: Is it an Exchange Risk Premium?" Quarterly Journal of Economics, February 1989, 416, 139-161.
- Giovannini, Alberto, and Philippe Jorion, "The Time-Variation of Risk and Return in the Foreign Exchange and Stock Markets," Journal of Finance, 1989.
- Hodrick, Robert J., The Empirical Evidence on the Efficiency of Forward and Futures Foreign Exchange Markets. Chur, Switzerland: Harwood Academic Publishers, 1987.
- Hodrick, Robert J., and Sanjay Srivastava, "An Investigation of Risk and Return in Forward Foreign Exchange," Journal of International Money and Finance, April 1984, 3, 5-30.
- Hodrick, Robert J., and Sanjay Srivastava, "The Covariation of Risk Premiums and Expected Future Spot Rates," Journal of International Money and Finance, 1986, 5, S5-S22.
- Krugman, Paul R., Exchange Rate Instability. Cambridge: MIT Press, 1989.
- Kyle, Albert F., "Continuous Auctions and Insider Trading," Econometrica, November 1985, 53, 1315-1336.
- Levich, Richard, "Empirical Studies of Exchange Rates: Price Behavior, Rate Determination and Market Efficiency." In Jones, R. W., and P. B. Kenen, eds. Handbook of International Economics, Volume 2. Amsterdam: North Holland, 1985.
- Lewis, Karen K., "Changing Beliefs and Systematic Rational Forecast Errors with Evidence from Foreign Exchange," American Economic Review, September 1989, 79, 621-636.
- Mark, Nelson C., "On Time Varying Risk Premia in the Foreign Exchange Market: An Econometric Analysis," Journal of Monetary Economics, 1985, 16, 3-18.
- Meese, Richard, "Currency Fluctuations in the Post-Bretton Woods Era," Journal of Economic Perspectives, Winter 1990, 4, 117-134.

Mussa, Michael, "Empirical Regularities in the Behavior of Exchange Rates and Theories of the Foreign Exchange Market." In Brunner, K., and A. H. Meltzer, eds., Policies for Employment Prices and Exchange Rates, Vol. 11. Carnegie-Rochester Conference Series on Public Policy, supplement to the Journal of Monetary Economics, 1979, 9-57.

Nurkse, Ragnar, International Currency Experience. Geneva: League of Nations, 1944.

Obstfeld, Maurice, "The Effectiveness of Foreign-Exchange Intervention: Recent Experience 1985-1988." In Branson, W., J. Frenkel, and M. Goldstein, eds., International Policy Coordination and Exchange Rate Determination. Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1990.

Rogoff, Kenneth, "Essays on Expectations and Exchange Rate Volatility," Ph.D. Dissertation Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1979.

Schulmeister, Stephan, "An Essay on Exchange Rate Dynamics," WZB, Berlin Discussion Paper no. 87-8, July 1987.

Stulz, Rene, "An Equilibrium Model of Exchange Rate Determination and Asset Pricing with Non-Traded Goods and Imperfect Information," mimeo, Ohio State University, 1986.

Sweeney, R. J., "Beating the Foreign Exchange Market," Journal of Finance, 1986, 41, 163-82.

Tversky, Amos, and Richard H. Thaler, "Anomalies: Preference Reversals," Journal of Economic Perspectives Spring, 1990, 4, 201-211.

This article has been cited by:

1. Ayano Sato, Hayato Nakata, Jay Percy. 2024. Time-variant safe haven currencies. International Review of Economics & Finance 93, 316-328. [Crossref]
2. Nelson R. Ramírez-Rondán, Marco E. Terrones. 2024. Uncertainty and the uncovered interest parity condition: How are they related?. Review of World Economics 76. . [Crossref]
3. Sendhil Mullainathan, Ashesh Rambachan. 2024. From Predictive Algorithms to Automatic Generation of Anomalies. SSRN Electronic Journal 8. . [Crossref]
4. Kwabena Kesse, Lloyd P. Blenman. 2024. Political risks, excess and carry trade returns in global markets. International Review of Financial Analysis 91, 102906. [Crossref]
5. Alan T. Wang, Chin-Chia Liang. 2023. Exchange rates, credit default swaps and market volatility of emerging markets: Panel CS-ARDL approach. Borsa Istanbul Review 21. . [Crossref]
6. Philippe Bacchetta, Simon Tièche, Eric van Wincoop. 2023. International Portfolio Choice with Frictions: Evidence from Mutual Funds. The Review of Financial Studies 36:10, 4233-4270. [Crossref]
7. Emmanuel Marques Silva, Rafael de Lacerda Moreira, Patricia Maria Bortolon. 2023. Mental Accounting and Decision Making: a systematic review of the literature. Journal of Behavioral and Experimental Economics 15, 102092. [Crossref]
8. Mitali Das. 2023. The term structure of uncovered interest parity in emerging markets. Applied Economics Letters 30:12, 1589-1596. [Crossref]
9. Islam Azzam, Ahmed A. El-Masry, Ehab Yamani. 2023. Foreign exchange market efficiency during COVID-19 pandemic. International Review of Economics & Finance 86, 717-730. [Crossref]
10. Karim M Abadir, Gabriel Talmain. 2023. Beyond Co-integration: New Tools for Inference on Co-movements. Journal of Financial Econometrics 175. . [Crossref]
11. Daniel Gründler, Eric Mayer, Johann Scharler. 2023. Monetary Policy Announcements, Information Shocks, and Exchange Rate Dynamics. Open Economies Review 34:2, 341-369. [Crossref]
12. Wajid Shakeel Ahmed, Shoaib Khattak, Ijlal Ahmed. 2023. Do forward premium rates predict the spot rates? Comparison of developed and emerging economies. International Journal of Finance & Economics 28:2, 2178-2187. [Crossref]
13. Wenjun Feng, Zhengjun Zhang. 2023. Currency exchange rate predictability: The new power of Bitcoin prices. Journal of International Money and Finance 132, 102811. [Crossref]
14. Evgenii N. LUKASH, Aleksandr S. MAL'TSEV. 2023. Econometric estimation of the cost of implementing the science-intensive projects based on efficient markets data. Economic Analysis: Theory and Practice 22:2, 291-315. [Crossref]
15. Cyn-Young Park, Kwanho Shin. 2023. The Development of Local Currency Bond Markets and Uncovered Interest Rate Parity. SSRN Electronic Journal 2. . [Crossref]
16. Söhnke M. Bartram, Leslie Djuranovik, Anthony Garratt, Yan Xu. 2023. Mispricing and Risk Premia in Currency Markets. SSRN Electronic Journal 76. . [Crossref]
17. Ravindra Nath Shukla, Vishal Vyas, Ankur Roy, Animesh Chaturvedi. Application of Data Science and Artificial Intelligence in Financial decisions: A survey 1-6. [Crossref]
18. Bo Han. 2022. Currency denomination and borrowing cost: Evidence from global bonds. Journal of Multinational Financial Management 66, 100761. [Crossref]
19. Giorgio Canarella, Luis A. Gil-Alana, Rangan Gupta, Stephen M. Miller. 2022. Globalization, long memory, and real interest rate convergence: a historical perspective. Empirical Economics 63:5, 2331-2355. [Crossref]

20. Alexander Cheema-Fox, George Serafeim, Hui (Stacie) Wang. 2022. Climate Change Vulnerability and Currency Returns. Financial Analysts Journal 78:4, 37-58. [Crossref]
21. Christina Anderl, Guglielmo Maria Caporale. 2022. Testing for UIP-Type Relationships: Nonlinearities, Monetary Announcements and Interest Rate Expectations. Open Economies Review 33:4, 705-749. [Crossref]
22. Matthieu Bussière, Menzie Chinn, Laurent Ferrara, Jonas Heipertz. 2022. The New Fama Puzzle. IMF Economic Review 70:3, 451-486. [Crossref]
23. Bernd Hayo, Kentaro Iwatsubo. 2022. Who Is Successful in Foreign Exchange Margin Trading? New Survey Evidence from Japan. Sustainability 14:18, 11662. [Crossref]
24. Lee A. Smales. 2022. The influence of policy uncertainty on exchange rate forecasting. Journal of Forecasting 41:5, 997-1016. [Crossref]
25. Soosung Hwang, Eunji Lee. 2022. The Effects of Sentiment on Extreme Movements in Exchange Rates. International Economic Journal 36:3, 445-460. [Crossref]
26. Jorge A. Muñoz Mendoza, Carmen L. Veloso Ramos, Sandra M. Sepúlveda Yelpo, Carlos L. Delgado Fuentealba, Edinson E. Cornejo Saavedra. 2022. Exchange Markets and Stock Markets Integration in Latin-America. Revista Mexicana de Economía y Finanzas 17:3, 1-24. [Crossref]
27. Jin Ho Choi, Sangwon Suh. 2022. Conditionally-hedged currency carry trades. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 79, 101591. [Crossref]
28. Yin-Wong Cheung, Wenhao Wang. 2022. Uncovered interest rate parity redux: Non-uniform effects. Journal of Empirical Finance 67, 133-151. [Crossref]
29. Charles Engel, Katya Kazakova, Mengqi Wang, Nan Xiang. 2022. A reconsideration of the failure of uncovered interest parity for the U.S. dollar. Journal of International Economics 136, 103602. [Crossref]
30. Karim Henide. 2022. Cross-currency credit spreads: harvesting the idiosyncratic basis as a source of ARP. Journal of Derivatives and Quantitative Studies: ##### 30:2, 74-88. [Crossref]
31. Massimo Ferrari Minesso, Arnaud Mehl, Livio Stracca. 2022. Central bank digital currency in an open economy. Journal of Monetary Economics 127, 54-68. [Crossref]
32. Yukio Fukumoto. Global Liquidity and Uncovered Interest Rate Parity Puzzle 143-151. [Crossref]
33. Alex Imas. Richard H. Thaler (1945-) 979-1004. [Crossref]
34. Bo Han. 2022. Currency Denomination and Borrowing Cost: Evidence from Global Bonds. SSRN Electronic Journal 58. . [Crossref]
35. Mobeen Ur Rehman, Abdel Razzaq Al Rababa'a, Ghaith El-Nader, Ahmad Alkhataybeh, Xuan Vinh Vo. 2022. Modelling the quantile cross-coherence between exchange rates: Does the COVID-19 pandemic change the interlinkage structure?. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 76, 101495. [Crossref]
36. Sophie van Huellen, Duo Qin, Shan Lu, Huiwen Wang, Qing Chao Wang, Thanos Moraitis. 2022. Modelling opportunity cost effects in money demand due to openness. International Journal of Finance & Economics 27:1, 697-744. [Crossref]
37. Guido Baltussen, Laurens Swinkels, Pim Van Vliet. 2021. Global factor premiums. Journal of Financial Economics 142:3, 1128-1154. [Crossref]
38. Ali A. Shehadeh, Youwei Li, Samuel A. Vigne, Mohammad I. Almaharmeh, Yizhi Wang. 2021. The existence and severity of the forward premium puzzle during tranquil and turbulent periods: Developed versus developing country currencies. International Review of Financial Analysis 78, 101871. [Crossref]
39. Wanling Zhong, Yunjie Fu, Wei Ma. 2021. A Revisit on the Validity of the Uncovered Interest Rate Parity-Evidence from Time-Varying Parameter Models. Applied Economics 53:48, 5518-5534. [Crossref]

40. Stephen A. Gorman, Frank J. Fabozzi. 2021. The ABC's of the alternative risk premium: academic roots. Journal of Asset Management 22:6, 405-436. [Crossref]
41. Qian Zhang, Zeguangu Li. 2021. Time-varying risk attitude and the foreign exchange market behavior. Research in International Business and Finance 57, 101394. [Crossref]
42. Tarek A. Hassan, Tony Zhang. 2021. The Economics of Currency Risk. Annual Review of Economics 13:1, 281-307. [Crossref]
43. Gbenga Ibikunle, Vito Mollica, Qiao Sun. 2021. Jumps in foreign exchange spot rates and the informational efficiency of currency forwards. Journal of Futures Markets 41:8, 1201-1219. [Crossref]
44. Dinçer Afat, Michael Frömmel. 2021. A Panel Data Analysis of Uncovered Interest Parity and Time-Varying Risk Premium. Open Economies Review 32:3, 507-526. [Crossref]
45. Söhnke M. Bartram, Harald Lohre, Peter F. Pope, Ananthalakshmi Ranganathan. 2021. Navigating the factor zoo around the world: an institutional investor perspective. Journal of Business Economics 91:5, 655-703. [Crossref]
46. Philippe Bacchetta, Eric van Wincoop. 2021. Puzzling exchange rate dynamics and delayed portfolio adjustment. Journal of International Economics 131, 103460. [Crossref]
47. Martin Mandel, Jan Vejmelek. 2021. Analysis of Relations in Uncovered Interest Rate Parity: Example of CZK/EUR Exchange Rate. Politická ekonomie 69:3, 340-359. [Crossref]
48. ZHENGYANG JIANG, ARVIND KRISHNAMURTHY, HANNO LUSTIG. 2021. Foreign Safe Asset Demand and the Dollar Exchange Rate. The Journal of Finance 76:3, 1049-1089. [Crossref]
49. Diana Zigraiova, Tomas Havranek, Zuzana Irsova, Jiri Novak. 2021. How puzzling is the forward premium puzzle? A meta-analysis. European Economic Review 134, 103714. [Crossref]
50. F. Pinar Erdem, Utku Bora Geyikci. 2021. Local, global and regional shocks indices in emerging exchange rate markets. International Review of Economics & Finance 73, 98-113. [Crossref]
51. Julieta Yung. 2021. Can interest rate factors explain exchange rate fluctuations?. Journal of Empirical Finance 61, 34-56. [Crossref]
52. Ehab Yamani. 2021. Foreign exchange market efficiency and the global financial crisis: Fundamental versus technical information. The Quarterly Review of Economics and Finance 79, 74-89. [Crossref]
53. Dooyeon Cho, Heejoon Han. 2021. The tail behavior of safe haven currencies: A cross-quantilegram analysis. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 70, 101257. [Crossref]
54. Ireneusz Pszczółka. 2021. Międzynarodowe waluty safe haven – bezpieczna przystań w czasie kryzysu. Optimum. Economic Studies :1(103), 80-90. [Crossref]
55. Alexander Cheema-Fox, George Serafeim, Hui Wang. 2021. Climate Change Vulnerability and Currency Returns. SSRN Electronic Journal 72. . [Crossref]
56. Stefan Vincenz, Tom Oskar Karl Zeissler. 2021. Time-Varying Factor Allocation. SSRN Electronic Journal 61. . [Crossref]
57. Katarzyna Czech. 2020. THE RISK PREMIUM IN THE FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET. THE APPLICATION OF ARCH-IN-MEAN MODEL. Metody Ilościowe w Badaniach Ekonomicznych 21:2, 71-79. [Crossref]
58. Michael D. Goldberg, Olesia Kozlova, Deniz Ozabaci. 2020. Forward Rate Bias in Developed and Developing Countries: More Risky Not Less Rational. Econometrics 8:4, 43. [Crossref]
59. Takuji Kinkyo. 2020. Volatility interdependence on foreign exchange markets: The contribution of cross-rates. The North American Journal of Economics and Finance 54, 101289. [Crossref]
60. Paulo Ferreira, Ladislav Kristoufek. 2020. Uncovered interest rate parity through the lens of fractal methods: Evidence from the European Union. Physica A: Statistical Mechanics and its Applications 553, 124257. [Crossref]

61. SEUNGDUCK LEE, KUK MO JUNG. 2020. A Liquidity-Based Resolution of the Uncovered Interest Parity Puzzle. Journal of Money, Credit and Banking 52:6, 1397-1433. [Crossref]
62. Tom Pak Wing Fong, Alfred Yun Tong Wong. 2020. Safehavenness of the Chinese renminbi. International Finance 23:2, 215-233. [Crossref]
63. Luis Molinas Sosa, Caio Vigo Pereira. Exchange Rates in South America's Emerging Markets 345, . [Crossref]
64. Jorge A. Muñoz Mendoza, Sandra M. Sepúlveda Yelpe, Carmen L. Veloso Ramos<sup>4</sup>, Carlos L. Delgado Fuentealba. 2020. Uncovered interest parity and behavior of interest differentials. Revista Mexicana de Economía y Finanzas 15:2, 173-183. [Crossref]
65. Paresch Kumar Narayan, Susan Sunila Sharma, Dinh Hoang Bach Phan, Guangqiang Liu. 2020. Predicting exchange rate returns. Emerging Markets Review 42, 100668. [Crossref]
66. Hsiu-Chuan Lee, Yun-Huan Lee, Yang-Cheng Lu, Yu-Chun Wang. 2020. States of psychological anchors and price behavior of Japanese yen futures. The North American Journal of Economics and Finance 51, 100868. [Crossref]
67. Philippe Bacchetta, Simon Tièche, Eric van Wincoop. 2020. International Portfolio Choice with Frictions: Evidence from Mutual Funds. SSRN Electronic Journal 131. . [Crossref]
68. Michael Jetter, Alex Nikolsko-Rzhevskyy, Olena Ogrokhina. 2019. Can policy shifts explain the forward discount puzzle?. Empirical Economics 57:6, 1891-1909. [Crossref]
69. Natalia Ponomareva, Jeffrey Sheen, Ben Zhe Wang. 2019. Forecasting exchange rates using principal components. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 63, 101131. [Crossref]
70. Satish Kumar. 2019. Does risk premium help uncover the uncovered interest parity failure?. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 63, 101135. [Crossref]
71. Kang. 2019. Currency Market Efficiency Revisited: Evidence from Korea. International Journal of Financial Studies 7:3, 52. [Crossref]
72. Michael Frenkel, Jan-Christoph Rülke, Matthias Mauch. 2019. Forecaster Rationality and Expectation Formation in Foreign Exchange Markets: Do Emerging Countries Differ from Industrialized Economies?. International Economic Journal 33:3, 383-407. [Crossref]
73. Ibrahim Jamali, Ehab Yamani. 2019. Out-of-sample exchange rate predictability in emerging markets: Fundamentals versus technical analysis. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 61, 241-263. [Crossref]
74. Kimberly A. Berg, Nelson C. Mark. 2019. Where's the Risk? The Forward Premium Bias, the Carry-Trade Premium, and Risk-Reversals in General Equilibrium. Journal of International Money and Finance 95, 297-316. [Crossref]
75. Ehab Yamani. 2019. Is It Liquidity or Quality that Matters More in Foreign Exchange Markets?. Emerging Markets Finance and Trade 55:8, 1857-1879. [Crossref]
76. David Peón, Manel Antelo, Anxo Calvo. 2019. A guide on empirical tests of the EMH. Review of Accounting and Finance 18:2, 268-295. [Crossref]
77. Vitaly Orlov. 2019. Solvency risk premia and the carry trades. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 60, 50-67. [Crossref]
78. Ehab Yamani. 2019. Diversification role of currency momentum for carry trade: Evidence from financial crises. Journal of Multinational Financial Management 49, 1-19. [Crossref]
79. Tarek A Hassan, Rui C Mano. 2019. Forward and Spot Exchange Rates in a Multi-Currency World*. The Quarterly Journal of Economics 134:1, 397-450. [Crossref]
80. Thabo J. Gopane. The Interest Rate Behaviour of Bitcoin as a Digital Asset 53-65. [Crossref]

81. Dooyeon Cho, Heejoon Han, Na Kyeong Lee. 2019. Carry trades and endogenous regime switches in exchange rate volatility. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 58, 255-268. [Crossref]
82. Dooyeon Cho, Sungju Chun. 2019. Can structural changes in the persistence of the forward premium explain the forward premium anomaly?. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 58, 225-235. [Crossref]
83. Ariel Mantzura, Ben Z. Schreiber. 2019. Predicting foreign investors' carry trade activity in the Israeli FX market using a time-varying currency risk premium approach. International Review of Economics & Finance 59, 438-457. [Crossref]
84. Ricardo Laborda Herrero, Jose Olmo. 2019. Hedging Demand in Long-Term Asset Allocation With an Application to Carry Trade Strategies. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
85. Zura Kakushadze, Willie Yu. 2019. iCurrency?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
86. Guido Baltussen, Laurens Swinkels, Pim van Vliet. 2019. Global Factor Premiums. SSRN Electronic Journal 45 . [Crossref]
87. Ilias Filippou, David Rapach, Mark Peter Taylor, Guofu Zhou. 2019. The Rise and Fall of the Carry Trade: Links to Exchange Rate Predictability. SSRN Electronic Journal 131 . [Crossref]
88. Adilzhan Ismailov, Barbara Rossi. 2018. Uncertainty and deviations from uncovered interest rate parity. Journal of International Money and Finance 88, 242-259. [Crossref]
89. Kevin Moran, Simplicio Aimé Nono. 2018. Gradual learning about shocks and the forward premium puzzle. Journal of International Money and Finance 88, 79-100. [Crossref]
90. Steven Smit, Daniel Polakow. 2018. The global currency tango — The relationship between the carry trade, emerging/commodity currencies and risk. Investment Analysts Journal 47:4, 285-303. [Crossref]
91. Ilias Filippou, Arie E. Gozluklu, Mark P. Taylor. 2018. Global Political Risk and Currency Momentum. Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis 53:5, 2227-2259. [Crossref]
92. Dooyeon Cho. 2018. On the persistence of the forward premium in the joint presence of nonlinearity, asymmetry, and structural changes. Economic Modelling 70, 310-319. [Crossref]
93. Alfred Y.-T. Wong, Tom Pak Wing Fong. 2018. Safehavenness of currencies. The European Journal of Finance 24:4, 300-332. [Crossref]
94. Syed Zahid Ali, Sajid Anwar. 2018. Anticipated versus unanticipated terms of trade shocks and the J-curve phenomenon. Journal of International Money and Finance 81, 1-19. [Crossref]
95. Menzie D. Chinn, Yi Zhang. 2018. Uncovered Interest Parity and Monetary Policy Near and Far from the Zero Lower Bound. Open Economies Review 29:1, 1-30. [Crossref]
96. Ralph S.J. Koijen, Tobias J. Moskowitz, Lasse Heje Pedersen, Evert B. Vrugt. 2018. Carry. Journal of Financial Economics 127:2, 197-225. [Crossref]
97. ADRIEN VERDELHAN. 2018. The Share of Systematic Variation in Bilateral Exchange Rates. The Journal of Finance 73:1, 375-418. [Crossref]
98. Zura Kakushadze, Juan Andrés Serur. Foreign Exchange (FX) 143-153. [Crossref]
99. Saskia ter Ellen, Willem F. C. Verschoor. Heterogeneous Beliefs and Asset Price Dynamics: A Survey of Recent Evidence 53-79. [Crossref]
100. Po-Hsuan Hsu, Mark Peter Taylor, Zigan Wang. 2018. The Profitability of Carry Trades: Reality or Illusion?. SSRN Electronic Journal 100 . [Crossref]
101. Rui Chen, Ke Du, Jun Liu. 2018. Intertemporal Substitution, Precautionary Saving, and the Currency Premium. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
102. Andrew Lilley, Gianluca Rinaldi. 2018. Currency Risk and Central Banks. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]

103. Söhnke M. Bartram, Leslie Djuranovik, Anthony Garratt. 2018. Currency Anomalies. SSRN Electronic Journal 76. . [Crossref]
104. Söhnke M. Bartram, Leslie Djuranovik, Anthony Garratt. 2018. Currency Anomalies. SSRN Electronic Journal 76. . [Crossref]
105. Söhnke M. Bartram, Leslie Djuranovik, Anthony Garratt. 2018. Currency Anomalies. SSRN Electronic Journal 76. . [Crossref]
106. Söhnke M. Bartram, Leslie Djuranovik, Anthony Garratt. 2018. Currency Anomalies. SSRN Electronic Journal 76. . [Crossref]
107. Ahmad Subagyo, Armanto Witjaksono. 2017. Impact of Some Overseas Monetary Variables on Indonesia: SVAR Approach. ECONOMICS 5:2, 117-123. [Crossref]
108. Efthymios G. Pavlidis, Ivan Paya, David A. Peel. 2017. TESTING FOR SPECULATIVE BUBBLES USING SPOT AND FORWARD PRICES. International Economic Review 58:4, 1191-1226. [Crossref]
109. Juan Carlos Cuestas, Fabio Filipozzi, Karsten Staehr. 2017. Uncovered interest parity in Central and Eastern Europe: Expectations and structural breaks. Review of International Economics 25:4, 695-710. [Crossref]
110. Chih-Chiang Wu, Chang-Che Wu. 2017. The asymmetry in carry trade and the U.S. dollar. The Quarterly Review of Economics and Finance 65, 304-313. [Crossref]
111. Ilias Filippou, Mark P. Taylor. 2017. Common Macro Factors and Currency Premia. Journal of Financial and Quantitative Analysis 52:4, 1731-1763. [Crossref]
112. André Cieplinski, Julia Braga, Ricardo Summa. 2017. Uma avaliação acerca da falha empírica do teorema da paridade descoberta da taxa de juros entre o Real e o Dólar. Economia e Sociedade 26:2, 401-426. [Crossref]
113. Helmut Herwartz, Stephan Schlüter. 2017. On the Predictive Information of Futures' Prices: A Wavelet-Based Assessment. Journal of Forecasting 36:4, 345-356. [Crossref]
114. Syed Zahid Ali, Sajid Anwar. 2017. Exchange rate pass through, cost channel to monetary policy transmission, adaptive learning, and the price puzzle. International Review of Economics & Finance 48, 69-82. [Crossref]
115. Cheolbeom Park, Sookyung Park. 2017. Can monetary policy cause the uncovered interest parity puzzle?. Japan and the World Economy 41, 34-44. [Crossref]
116. Kevin J. Lansing, Jun Ma. 2017. Explaining exchange rate anomalies in a model with Taylor-rule fundamentals and consistent expectations. Journal of International Money and Finance 70, 62-87. [Crossref]
117. Michael D. Goldberg, Olesia Kozlova. 2017. Are Currency Returns Really Predictable?: Unforeseeable Structural Change and the Forward Rate Anomaly. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
118. Saskia ter Ellen, Willem F. C. Verschoor. 2017. Heterogeneous Beliefs and Asset Price Dynamics: A Survey of Recent Evidence. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
119. Ehab Yamani. Emerging Markets Carry Trades and Financial Crises 201-227. [Crossref]
120. Hande Karabiyik, Joakim Westerlund, Paresh Narayan. 2016. On the estimation and testing of predictive panel regressions. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 45, 115-125. [Crossref]
121. Marcelo Bittencourt Coelho dos Santos, Marcelo Cabus Klotzle, Antonio Carlos Figueiredo Pinto. 2016. Evidence of risk premiums in emerging market carry trade currencies. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 44, 103-115. [Crossref]

122. Po-Hsuan Hsu, Mark P. Taylor, Zigan Wang. 2016. Technical trading: Is it still beating the foreign exchange market?. Journal of International Economics 102, 188-208. [Crossref]
123. Marshall L. Stocker. 2016. The price of freedom: Idiosyncratic currency devaluations. Research in International Business and Finance 38, 312-325. [Crossref]
124. FRANCIS BREEDON, DAGFINN RIME, PAOLO VITALE. 2016. Carry Trades, Order Flow, and the Forward Bias Puzzle. Journal of Money, Credit and Banking 48:6, 1113-1134. [Crossref]
125. Young Se Kim, Gwi Hwan Seol. 2016. Monetary Policy Regime Shifts and Uncovered Interest Parity Revisited: The Euro–US Dollar Exchange Rate. International Economic Journal 30:3, 360-378. [Crossref]
126. Olivier Accominotti, David Chambers. 2016. If You're So Smart: John Maynard Keynes and Currency Speculation in the Interwar Years. The Journal of Economic History 76:2, 342-386. [Crossref]
127. . Chapter 4: The International Parity Conditions and Their Consequences 61-87. [Crossref]
128. Katrin Rabitsch. 2016. An Incomplete Markets Explanation of the Uncovered Interest Rate Parity Puzzle. Review of International Economics 24:2, 422-446. [Crossref]
129. James R. Lothian. 2016. Uncovered interest parity: The long and the short of it. Journal of Empirical Finance 36, 1-7. [Crossref]
130. Kees G. Koedijk, Alfred M.H. Slager, Philip A. Stork. 2016. Investing in Systematic Factor Premiums. European Financial Management 22:2, 193-234. [Crossref]
131. Charles Engel. 2016. Exchange Rates, Interest Rates, and the Risk Premium. American Economic Review 106:2, 436-474. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
132. Tsung-Wu Ho, Wan-Shin Mo. 2016. Testing the Persistence of the Forward Premium: Structural Changes or Misspecification?. Open Economies Review 27:1, 119-138. [Crossref]
133. Srđan Marinković, Ognjen Radović, Željko Šević. Testing Uncovered Interest Parity for Structural Breaks: A Developing Country Perspective 121-137. [Crossref]
134. Giancarlo Gandolfo. International Interest–Rate Parity Conditions 53-66. [Crossref]
135. Alessio Anzuini, Francesca Brusa. 2016. Carry Trades and Exchange Rate Volatility: A TVAR Approach. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
136. Razvan Stefanescu. 2016. Particularitti Ale Evoluuei Variabilelor Financiare (Some Particularities of the Financial Variables Evolution). SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
137. Dejan Živkov, Jovan Njegić, Mirela Momčilović, Ivan Milenković. 2016. Exchange Rate Volatility and Uncovered Interest Rate Parity in the European Emerging Economies. Prague Economic Papers 25:3, 253-270. [Crossref]
138. Oliver Hossfeld, Ronald MacDonald. 2015. Carry funding and safe haven currencies: A threshold regression approach. Journal of International Money and Finance 59, 185-202. [Crossref]
139. Kent Daniel, David Hirshleifer. 2015. Overconfident Investors, Predictable Returns, and Excessive Trading. Journal of Economic Perspectives 29:4, 61-88. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
140. Josh R. Stillwagon. 2015. Can the Consumption Capital Asset Pricing Model Account for Traders' Expected Currency Returns?. Review of International Economics 23:5, 1044-1069. [Crossref]
141. Shiou-Yen Chu. 2015. Funding liquidity constraints and the forward premium anomaly in a DSGE model. International Review of Economics & Finance 39, 76-89. [Crossref]
142. Ludger Linnemann, Andreas Schabert. 2015. Liquidity premia and interest rate parity. Journal of International Economics 97:1, 178-192. [Crossref]
143. A. Leonhardt, A. W. Rathgeber, J. Stadler, S. Stöckl. 2015. Pricing fx forwards in OTC markets – new evidence for the pricing mechanism when faced with counterparty risk. Applied Economics 47:27, 2860-2877. [Crossref]

144. Hiroya Akiba. 2015. Stability of Monetary Union with Outsiders. Global Economic Review 44:2, 151-166. [Crossref]
145. Axel Grossmann, Marc W. Simpson. 2015. Bid-ask spreads, deviations from PPP and the forward prediction error: The case of the British pound and the euro. The Quarterly Review of Economics and Finance 55, 124-139. [Crossref]
146. Jing Li, Norman C. Miller. 2015. Foreign exchange market inefficiency and exchange rate anomalies. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 34, 311-320. [Crossref]
147. Martin Brown, Helmut Stix. 2015. The euroization of bank deposits in Eastern Europe. Economic Policy 30:81, 95-139. [Crossref]
148. Yuen Meng Wong. 2015. Malaysia REIT: First Decade Development and Returns Characteristics. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
149. Francis Breedon, Dagfinn Rime, Paolo Vitale. 2015. Carry Trades, Order Flow and the Forward Bias Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
150. Krzysztof Borowski. 2015. Analysis of Selected Seasonality Effects in Market of Rubber Future Contracts Quoted on Tokyo Commodity Exchange. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
151. Kent D. Daniel, David A. Hirshleifer. 2015. Overconfident Investors, Predictable Returns, and Excessive Trading. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
152. Yu-Jen Wang, Huimin Chung, Bruce Mizrach. Econometric Analysis of Currency Carry Trade 1877-1890. [Crossref]
153. Richard T. Baillie, Dooyeon Cho. 2014. Time variation in the standard forward premium regression: Some new models and tests. Journal of Empirical Finance 29, 52-63. [Crossref]
154. Saša Popović, Andrija Đurović. 2014. Intraday and intraday trade anomalies: evidence from FOREX market. Applied Economics 46:32, 3968-3979. [Crossref]
155. Geetesh Bhardwaj, Gary B. Gorton, K. Geert Rouwenhorst. 2014. Fooling Some of the People All of the Time: The Inefficient Performance and Persistence of Commodity Trading Advisors. Review of Financial Studies 27:11, 3099-3132. [Crossref]
156. Richard T. Baillie, Dooyeon Cho. 2014. When Carry Trades in Currency Markets are not Profitable. Review of Development Economics 18:4, 794-803. [Crossref]
157. Muhammad Omer, Jakob de Haan, Bert Scholtens. 2014. Testing uncovered interest rate parity using LIBOR. Applied Economics 46:30, 3708-3723. [Crossref]
158. MARTIN BROWN, KAROLIN KIRSCHENMANN, STEVEN ONGENA. 2014. Bank Funding, Securitization, and Loan Terms: Evidence from Foreign Currency Lending. Journal of Money, Credit and Banking 46:7, 1501-1534. [Crossref]
159. Jun Nagayasu. 2014. The forward premium puzzle and the Euro. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 32, 436-451. [Crossref]
160. Jakub W. Jurek. 2014. Crash-neutral currency carry trades. Journal of Financial Economics 113:3, 325-347. [Crossref]
161. Philipp Matros, Enzo Weber. 2014. Non-stationary Interest Rate Differentials and the Role of Monetary Policy. International Economic Journal 28:3, 497-512. [Crossref]
162. Axel Grossmann, Allissa A. Lee, Marc W. Simpson. 2014. Forward premium anomaly of the British pound and the euro. International Review of Financial Analysis 34, 140-156. [Crossref]
163. Raj Aggarwal, Brian M. Lucey, Fergal A. O'Connor. 2014. Rationality in precious metals forward markets: Evidence of behavioural deviations in the gold markets. Journal of Multinational Financial Management 25-26, 110-130. [Crossref]

164. Razzaque H. Bhatti. 2014. The existence of uncovered interest parity in the CIS countries. Economic Modelling 40, 227-241. [Crossref]
165. Kang, Myung Hun. 2014. A Study on the Effectiveness for the Interest Rate Oriented Monetary Policy. KUKJE KYUNGJE YONGU 20:2, 1-28. [Crossref]
166. Alfred V. Guender. 2014. Monetary Policy and the Uncovered Interest Rate Parity Puzzle: Theory and Empirical Results for Oceania. Economic Record 90:289, 207-219. [Crossref]
167. Marc W. Simpson, Axel Grossmann. 2014. An examination of the forward prediction error of U.S. dollar exchange rates and how they are related to bid-ask spreads, purchasing power parity disequilibria, and forward premium asymmetry. The North American Journal of Economics and Finance 28, 221-238. [Crossref]
168. Martin Brown, Steven Ongena, Pinar Yeşin. 2014. Information Asymmetry and Foreign Currency Borrowing by Small Firms. Comparative Economic Studies 56:1, 110-131. [Crossref]
169. Momtchil Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2014. Evaluating absolute return managers. Financial Markets and Portfolio Management 28:1, 95-103. [Crossref]
170. Arjun Chatrath, Hong Miao, Sanjay Ramchander, Sriram Villupuram. 2014. Currency jumps, cojumps and the role of macro news. Journal of International Money and Finance 40, 42-62. [Crossref]
171. Michaela M. Kiermeier. Wavelet Analysis and the Forward Premium Anomaly 131-142. [Crossref]
172. Charles Engel. Exchange Rates and Interest Parity 453-522. [Crossref]
173. Robert Hayward, Jens Hölscher. UIP, the Carry Trade and Minsky's Financial Instability Hypothesis in the CEE and CIS 111-138. [Crossref]
174. Momtchil Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich, Ross M Kasarda. 2014. The Impact of Currency Exposure on Institutional Investment Performance: The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
175. J. Benson Durham. 2014. Arbitrage-Free Affine Models of the Forward Price of Foreign Currency. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
176. Barbara Rossi. 2013. Exchange Rate Predictability. Journal of Economic Literature 51:4, 1063-1119. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
177. Cheolbeom Park, Sookyoung Park. 2013. Exchange rate predictability and a monetary model with time-varying cointegration coefficients. Journal of International Money and Finance 37, 394-410. [Crossref]
178. LORIANO MANCINI, ANGELO RANALDO, JAN WRAMPELMEYER. 2013. Liquidity in the Foreign Exchange Market: Measurement, Commonality, and Risk Premiums. The Journal of Finance 68:5, 1805-1841. [Crossref]
179. Stuart Snaith, Jerry Coakley, Neil Kellard. 2013. Does the forward premium puzzle disappear over the horizon?. Journal of Banking & Finance 37:9, 3681-3693. [Crossref]
180. Byung-Joo Lee. 2013. Uncovered interest parity puzzle: Asymmetric responses. International Review of Economics & Finance 27, 238-249. [Crossref]
181. Carlos Eduardo Castillo-Maldonado, Fidel Pérez-Macal. 2013. Assessment of Models to Forecast Exchange Rates: The Quetzal-U.S. Dollar Exchange Rate. Journal of Applied Economics 16:1, 71-99. [Crossref]
182. Richard Spronk, Willem F.C. Verschoor, Remco C.J. Zwinkels. 2013. Carry trade and foreign exchange rate puzzles. European Economic Review 60, 17-31. [Crossref]
183. Virginie Coudert, Valérie Mignon. 2013. The "forward premium puzzle" and the sovereign default risk. Journal of International Money and Finance 32, 491-511. [Crossref]
184. Sanders S. Chang. 2013. Can cross-country portfolio rebalancing give rise to forward bias in FX markets?. Journal of International Money and Finance 32, 1079-1096. [Crossref]

185. Thomas C. Chiang. International Parity Conditions and Market Risk 243-255. [Crossref]
186. M.R. McBrady, M.J. Schill. Opportunistic Foreign Currency Debt Issuance 223-238. [Crossref]
187. P. Bacchetta. Explaining Deviations from Uncovered Interest Rate Parity 209-212. [Crossref]
188. Karen Poghosyan, Otilia Boldea. 2013. Structural versus matching estimation: Transmission mechanisms in Armenia. Economic Modelling 30, 136-148. [Crossref]
189. Razvan Stefanescu, Ramona Dumitriu. 2013. Impact of the Foreign Exchange Rates Fluctuations on Returns and Volatility of the Bucharest Stock Exchange. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
190. Fabian Ackermann, Walt Pohl, Karl H. Schmedders. 2013. Long-Run UIP Holds Even in the Short Run. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
191. Tarek A. Hassan, Rui C. Mano. 2013. Forward and Spot Exchange Rates in a Multi-Currency World. SSRN Electronic Journal 76 . [Crossref]
192. Barbara Rossi. 2013. Exchange Rate Predictability. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
193. Alfred Wong, Tom Fong. 2013. Gauging the Safehavenness of Currencies. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
194. Ramona Dumitriu, Razvan Stefanescu. 2013. Provocările Politicii Monetare (Monetary Policy Challenges). SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
195. Momtchil T. Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2013. Evaluating Absolute Return Managers. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
196. Michael Jetter, Alex Nikolsko-Rzhevskyy. 2013. Monetary Policy Shifts and the Forward Discount Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal 76 . [Crossref]
197. Po-Hsuan Hsu, Mark P. Taylor. 2013. Forty Years, Thirty Currencies and 21,000 Trading Rules: A Large-Scale, Data-Snooping Robust Analysis of Technical Trading in the Foreign Exchange Market. SSRN Electronic Journal 2 . [Crossref]
198. Neil Lancaster. 2012. Circuit Theory Extended: The Role of Speculation in Crises. Economics 6:1. . [Crossref]
199. Joseph P. Byrne, Jun Nagayasu. 2012. COMMON FACTORS OF THE EXCHANGE RISK PREMIUM IN EMERGING EUROPEAN MARKETS. Bulletin of Economic Research 64:s1. . [Crossref]
200. Marc Flandreau, Kim Oosterlinck. 2012. Was the emergence of the international gold standard expected? Evidence from Indian Government securities. Journal of Monetary Economics 59:7, 649-669. [Crossref]
201. Dandan Li, Atanu Ghoshray, Bruce Morley. 2012. Measuring the risk premium in uncovered interest parity using the component GARCH-M model. International Review of Economics & Finance 24, 167-176. [Crossref]
202. Rubi Ahmad, S. Ghon Rhee, Yuen Meng Wong. 2012. Foreign exchange market efficiency under recent crises: Asia-Pacific focus. Journal of International Money and Finance 31:6, 1574-1592. [Crossref]
203. PETER BOFINGER. 2012. THE SCOPE FOR FOREIGN EXCHANGE MARKET INTERVENTIONS. Journal of International Commerce, Economics and Policy 03:03, 1250018. [Crossref]
204. Virginie Coudert, Hélène Raymond. 2012. L'or est-il une valeur refuge pendant les récessions et les crises boursières ?. Revue économique Vol. 63:5, 993-1011. [Crossref]
205. Christian Wagner. 2012. Risk-premia, carry-trade dynamics, and economic value of currency speculation. Journal of International Money and Finance 31:5, 1195-1219. [Crossref]

206. Òscar Jordà, Alan M. Taylor. 2012. The carry trade and fundamentals: Nothing to fear but FEER itself. Journal of International Economics 88:1, 74-90. [Crossref]
207. R. Scott Hacker, Hyunjoo Kim Karlsson, Kristofer Månsson. 2012. The Relationship between Exchange Rates and Interest Rate Differentials: A Wavelet Approach. The World Economy 35:9, 1162-1185. [Crossref]
208. Lucio Sarno, Paul Schneider, Christian Wagner. 2012. Properties of foreign exchange risk premiums. Journal of Financial Economics 105:2, 279-310. [Crossref]
209. Cosmin Ilut. 2012. Ambiguity Aversion: Implications for the Uncovered Interest Rate Parity Puzzle. American Economic Journal: Macroeconomics 4:3, 33-65. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
210. Philippe Bacchetta, Eric van Wincoop. Modeling Exchange Rates with Incomplete Information 375-390. [Crossref]
211. Hanno Lustig, Adrien Verdelhan. Exchange Rates in a Stochastic Discount Factor Framework 391-420. [Crossref]
212. Stefan Reitz, Mark P. Taylor. 2012. FX intervention in the Yen-US dollar market: a coordination channel perspective. International Economics and Economic Policy 9:2, 111-128. [Crossref]
213. Chung-Wei Kao, Jer-Yuh Wan. 2012. Heterogeneous behaviours and the effectiveness of central bank intervention in the yen/dollar exchange market. Applied Financial Economics 22:12, 967-975. [Crossref]
214. Gordon D. Menzies, Daniel John Zizzo. 2012. Monetary policy and inferential expectations of exchange rates. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 22:2, 359-380. [Crossref]
215. Abdunnasser Hatemi-J, Eduardo Roca. 2012. A re-examination of the unbiased forward rate hypothesis in the presence of multiple unknown structural breaks. Applied Economics 44:11, 1443-1448. [Crossref]
216. Ming-Hua Liu, Dimitris Margaritis, Alireza Tourani-Rad. 2012. Risk appetite, carry trade and exchange rates. Global Finance Journal 23:1, 48-63. [Crossref]
217. Martin Brown, Ralph De Haas. 2012. Foreign banks and foreign currency lending in emerging Europe. Economic Policy 27:69, 57-98. [Crossref]
218. Loriano Mancini, Angelo Ranaldo, Jan Wrampelmeyer. 2012. Liquidity in the Foreign Exchange Market: Measurement, Commonality, and Risk Premiums. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
219. Martin Brown, Karolin Kirschenmann, Steven R. G. Ongena. 2012. Bank Funding, Securitization and Loan Terms: Evidence from Foreign Currency Lending. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
220. Steven R. G. Ongena, Pinar Ayse Yesin, Martin Brown. 2012. Information Asymmetry and Foreign Currency Borrowing by Small Firms. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
221. Martin D.D. Evans. 2012. Exchange-Rate Dark Matter. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
222. Karim M. Abadir, Gabriel Talmain. 2012. Beyond Co-Integration: Modelling Co-Movements in Macro Finance. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
223. Matthew Greenwood-Nimmo. 2012. Inflation Targeting Monetary and Fiscal Policies in a Two-Country Stock-Flow Consistent Model. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
224. Brian M. Lucey, Grace Loring. 2012. Forward Exchange Rate Biasedness Across Developed and Developing Country Currencies: Do Observed Patterns Persist Out of Sample?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
225. Fang Liu, Piet M. F. A. Sercu. 2012. The Safe-Haven Effect in Forward Premia: What Makes a Currency Trustworthy?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
226. Martin D. D. Evans. 2012. Exchange-Rate Dark Matter. IMF Working Papers 12:66, i. [Crossref]

227. Vít Pošta. 2012. Estimation of the Time-Varying Risk Premium in the Czech Foreign Exchange Market. Prague Economic Papers 21:1, 3-17. [Crossref]
228. Hanno Lustig,, Adrien Verdelhan. 2011. The Cross Section of Foreign Currency Risk Premia and Consumption Growth Risk: Reply. American Economic Review 101:7, 3477-3500. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
229. Alfred Guender, Bevan Cook. 2011. Monetary policy implementation and uncovered interest parity: Empirical evidence from Oceania. New Zealand Economic Papers 45:3, 209-229. [Crossref]
230. Heeho Kim. 2011. The risk adjusted uncovered equity parity. Journal of International Money and Finance 30:7, 1491-1505. [Crossref]
231. Stephen Gilmore,, Fumio Hayashi. 2011. Emerging Market Currency Excess Returns. American Economic Journal: Macroeconomics 3:4, 85-111. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
232. Richard T. Baillie. 2011. Possible solutions to the forward bias paradox. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 21:4, 617-622. [Crossref]
233. STEFAN REITZ, JAN C. RÜLKE, MARK P. TAYLOR. 2011. On the Nonlinear Influence of Reserve Bank of Australia Interventions on Exchange Rates*. Economic Record 87:278, 465-479. [Crossref]
234. Heeho Kim, JooEun Cho. 2011. A Test of the Revised Interest Parity in China and Asian Emerging Markets. Emerging Markets Finance and Trade 47:sup4, 23-41. [Crossref]
235. Richard T. Baillie, Sanders S. Chang. 2011. Carry trades, momentum trading and the forward premium anomaly. Journal of Financial Markets 14:3, 441-464. [Crossref]
236. ###. 2011. The Impact of Monetary Policy on the Foreign Exchange Rate: An Empirical Evidence from Korea. KUKJE KYUNGJE YONGU 17:2, 93-115. [Crossref]
237. Momtchil Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2011. Are All Currency Managers Equal?. The Journal of Portfolio Management 37:4, 42-53. [Crossref]
238. . Bibliography 253-262. [Crossref]
239. Syed Zahid Ali, Sajid Anwar. 2011. Supply-side effects of exchange rates, exchange rate expectations and induced currency depreciation. Economic Modelling 28:4, 1650-1672. [Crossref]
240. KONSTANTINOS G. PAPADOPOULOS, LEONIDAS C. KOUTSOUGERAS. 2011. A STRATEGIC MARKET GAME OF CARRY TRADES AND EQUILIBRIUM PROFITS*. The Manchester School 79:3, 528-541. [Crossref]
241. Byung-Joo Lee. 2011. Uncovered Interest Parity: Cross-Sectional Evidence. Review of International Economics 19:2, 219-231. [Crossref]
242. Jose Olmo, Keith Pilbeam. 2011. Uncovered interest parity and the efficiency of the foreign exchange market: a re-examination of the evidence. International Journal of Finance & Economics 16:2, 189-204. [Crossref]
243. . Bibliography 527-550. [Crossref]
244. Travis Berge, Òscar Jordà, Alan M. Taylor. 2011. Currency Carry Trades. NBER International Seminar on Macroeconomics 7:1, 357-388. [Crossref]
245. Keith Pilbeam, Jose Olmo. 2011. The forward discount puzzle and market efficiency. Annals of Finance 7:1, 119-135. [Crossref]
246. Stefan Eichler. 2011. Exchange rate expectations and the pricing of Chinese cross-listed stocks. Journal of Banking & Finance 35:2, 443-455. [Crossref]
247. Kin-Boon Tang. 2011. The precise form of uncovered interest parity: A heterogeneous panel application in ASEAN-5 countries. Economic Modelling 28:1-2, 568-573. [Crossref]

248. Petri Jylhä, Matti Suominen. 2011. Speculative capital and currency carry trades. Journal of Financial Economics 99:1, 60-75. [Crossref]
249. Andrew Hughes Hallett, Christian Richter. On the Efficiency of Capital Markets: An Analysis of the Short End of the UK Term Structure 147-162. [Crossref]
250. Willi Semmler, Aleksandr V. Gevorkyan. Sailing Out of Crisis Emerging Markets Style 155-195. [Crossref]
251. Martín Grandes, Marcel Peter, Nicolas Pinaud. Pricing the Currency Premium Under Flexible Exchange Rates 669-708. [Crossref]
252. Marc Flandreau, Kim Oosterlinck. 2011. Was the Emergence of the International Gold Standard Expected? Melodramatic Evidence from Indian Government Securities. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
253. Dhekra Azouzi. 2011. Do Emergent Market Currencies Lure the Forward Premium Bias to its Doom?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
254. Sanders Chang. 2011. Cross-Country Equity Investment and Exchange Rate Dynamics. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
255. Tim-Alexander Kroencke, Felix Schindler, Andreas Schrimpf. 2011. International Diversification Benefits with Foreign Exchange Investment Styles. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
256. Philipp Matros, Enzo Weber. 2011. Non-Stationary Interest Rate Differentials and the Role of Monetary Policy. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
257. Arjen Mulder, Ben Tims. 2011. Asymmetric Extreme Sampling, Developed Versus Emerging Countries, and the Forward Premium Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal 23 . [Crossref]
258. Rubi Ahmad, S. Ghon Rhee, Yuen Meng Jeff Wong. 2011. Foreign Exchange Market Efficiency Under Recent Crises: Asia-Pacific Focus. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
259. Karen Poghosyan, Otilia Boldea. 2011. Structural Versus Matching Estimation: Transmission Mechanisms in Armenia. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
260. Apostolos Xanthopoulos. 2011. Non-Linearity and the Forward Premium Anomaly. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
261. Apostolos Xanthopoulos. 2011. A Mixture of Normals Model of Market Efficiency. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
262. Momtchil Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2011. Detecting Crowded Trades in Currency Funds. Financial Analysts Journal 67:1, 26-39. [Crossref]
263. Charles M. Engel. 2011. The Real Exchange Rate, Real Interest Rates, and the Risk Premium. SSRN Electronic Journal 9 . [Crossref]
264. Shuming Bai, Andre Varella Mollick. 2010. Currency crisis and the forward discount bias: Evidence from emerging economies under breaks. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 20:5, 556-574. [Crossref]
265. Momtchil Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2010. Trades of the living dead: Style differences, style persistence and performance of currency fund managers. Journal of International Money and Finance 29:8, 1752-1775. [Crossref]
266. Axel Grossmann, Marc W. Simpson. 2010. Forecasting the Yen/U.S. Dollar exchange rate: Empirical evidence from a capital enhanced relative PPP-based model. Journal of Asian Economics 21:5, 476-484. [Crossref]
267. William D. Craighead, George K. Davis, Norman C. Miller. 2010. Interest differentials and extreme support for uncovered interest rate parity. International Review of Economics & Finance 19:4, 723-732. [Crossref]

268. Matthew R. McBrady, Sandra Mortal, Michael J. Schill. 2010. Do Firms Believe in Interest Rate Parity?*. Review of Finance 14:4, 695-726. [Crossref]
269. Jan C. Ruelke, Michael R. Frenkel, Georg Stadtmann. 2010. Expectations on the yen/dollar exchange rate – Evidence from the Wall Street Journal forecast poll. Journal of the Japanese and International Economics 24:3, 355-368. [Crossref]
270. Sarantis Kalyvitis, Ifigeneia Skotida. 2010. Some empirical evidence on the effects of U.S. monetary policy shocks on cross exchange rates. The Quarterly Review of Economics and Finance 50:3, 386-394. [Crossref]
271. Nikolaos Mylonidis, Maria Semertzidou. 2010. Uncovered interest parity puzzle: does it really exist?. Applied Economics Letters 17:10, 1023-1026. [Crossref]
272. Philippe Bacchetta,, Eric van Wincoop. 2010. Infrequent Portfolio Decisions: A Solution to the Forward Discount Puzzle. American Economic Review 100:3, 870-904. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
273. Wai Mun Fong. 2010. A stochastic dominance analysis of yen carry trades. Journal of Banking & Finance 34:6, 1237-1246. [Crossref]
274. Hafedh Bouakez, Michel Normandin. 2010. Fluctuations in the foreign exchange market: How important are monetary policy shocks?. Journal of International Economics 81:1, 139-153. [Crossref]
275. Markus Hochradl, Christian Wagner. 2010. Trading the forward bias: Are there limits to speculation?. Journal of International Money and Finance 29:3, 423-441. [Crossref]
276. Jeffrey Frankel, Jumana Poonawala. 2010. The forward market in emerging currencies: Less biased than in major currencies. Journal of International Money and Finance 29:3, 585-598. [Crossref]
277. Iikka Korhonen, Aaron Mehrotra. 2010. Money Demand in Post-Crisis Russia: Dedollarization and Remonetization. Emerging Markets Finance and Trade 46:2, 5-19. [Crossref]
278. Özgür Aslan, H. Levent Korap. 2010. Does the uncovered interest parity hold in short horizons?. Applied Economics Letters 17:4, 361-365. [Crossref]
279. Tommaso Mancini Griffoli. 2010. Discussion of “The Swiss Franc Exchange Rate and Deviations from UIP: Global versus Domestic Factors” by Mathias Hoffmann and Rahel Suter. Swiss Journal of Economics and Statistics 146:1, 377-384. [Crossref]
280. Shyh-Wei Chen. 2010. Testing the hypothesis of market efficiency in the Taiwan-US forward exchange market since 1990. Applied Economics 42:1, 121-132. [Crossref]
281. Petri Jylha, Matti Suominen. 2010. Speculative Capital and Currency Carry Trades. SSRN Electronic Journal 99. . [Crossref]
282. Stephen W. Gilmore, Fumio Hayashi. 2010. Emerging Market Currency Excess Returns. SSRN Electronic Journal 51. . [Crossref]
283. Momtchil T. Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2010. Detecting Crowded Trades in Currency Funds. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
284. A. Craig Burnside, Bing Han, David A. Hirshleifer, Tracy Yue Wang. 2010. Investor Overconfidence and the Forward Premium Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal 97. . [Crossref]
285. Syed Zahid Ali. 2010. Supply-Side Effects of Exchange Rate, Exchange Rate Expectations and Induced Currency Depreciation. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
286. Martin Brown, Ralph De Haas. 2010. Foreign Currency Lending in Emerging Europe: Bank Level Evidence. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
287. Moses Azege. 2010. Forward Exchange Rate Efficiency: A Cointegration and Error Correction Model Approach. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]

288. Kerstin Bernoth, Jürgen von Hagen, Casper G. de Vries. 2010. The Forward Premium Puzzle and Latent Factors Day by Day. SSRN Electronic Journal 97. . [Crossref]
289. Ramona Dumitriu, Costel Nistor, Razvan Stefanescu. 2010. Changes in the Monthly Effects from the Romanian Foreign Exchange Market. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
290. Jochen M. Schmittmann. 2010. Currency Hedging for International Portfolios. IMF Working Papers 10:151, 1. [Crossref]
291. Arnaud Mehl, Lorenzo Cappiello. 2009. Uncovered Interest Parity at Long Horizons: Evidence on Emerging Economies*. Review of International Economics 17:5, 1019-1037. [Crossref]
292. Chang-Chiang Chin, Hwei-Mei Liang. 2009. The long-run uncovered interest rate parity in view of a trading strategy. Applied Economics 41:21, 2727-2739. [Crossref]
293. Pasquale Della Corte, Lucio Sarno, Ilias Tsiakas. 2009. An Economic Evaluation of Empirical Exchange Rate Models. Review of Financial Studies 22:9, 3491-3530. [Crossref]
294. L. Erdey, P. Földvári. 2009. Do Purchasing Power and Interest Rate Parities hold for the EUR/HUF exchange rate?. Acta Oeconomica 59:3, 289-306. [Crossref]
295. Avik Chakraborty. 2009. LEARNING, THE FORWARD PREMIUM PUZZLE, AND MARKET EFFICIENCY. Macroeconomic Dynamics 13:S1, 31-57. [Crossref]
296. Jose Olmo, Keith Pilbeam. 2009. The profitability of carry trades. Annals of Finance 5:2, 231-241. [Crossref]
297. Jessica James, Kristjan Kasikov, Aysu Secmen. 2009. Uncovered interest parity and the FX carry trade†. Quantitative Finance 9:2, 123-127. [Crossref]
298. C. Emre Alper, Oya Pinar Ardic, Salih Fendoglu. 2009. THE ECONOMICS OF THE UNCOVERED INTEREST PARITY CONDITION FOR EMERGING MARKETS. Journal of Economic Surveys 23:1, 115-138. [Crossref]
299. Martin Brown, Steven R. G. Ongena, Pinar Ayse Yesin. 2009. Foreign Currency Borrowing by Small Firms. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
300. Fang Liu, Piet M. F. A. Sercu. 2009. Why are Some Currencies Viewed as Benchmarks? The Roles of Interest Rates, Economic Size, and Exchange-Rate Regime. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
301. Tanya Molodtsova, Alex Nikolsko-Rzhevskyy, David H. Papell. 2009. Taylor Rules and the Euro. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
302. Momtchil Pojarliev. 2008. Trading the Forward Rate Puzzle. The Journal of Alternative Investments 11:3, 58-61. [Crossref]
303. Piet Sercu, Martina Vandebroek, Xueping Wu. 2008. Is the forward bias economically small? Evidence from European rates. Journal of International Money and Finance 27:8, 1284-1302. [Crossref]
304. David C. Blitz, Pim Van Vliet. 2008. Global Tactical Cross-Asset Allocation: Applying Value and Momentum Across Asset Classes. The Journal of Portfolio Management 35:1, 23-38. [Crossref]
305. Panayiotis F. Diamandis, Dimitris A. Georgoutsos, Georgios P. Kouretas. 2008. Testing the forward rate unbiasedness hypothesis during the 1920s. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 18:4, 358-373. [Crossref]
306. Petter N. Kolm, Sergio M. Focardi, Frank J. Fabozzi, Dessislava A. Pachamanova. Quantitative Investment Management: Today and Tomorrow . [Crossref]
307. Almuth Scholl, Harald Uhlig. 2008. New evidence on the puzzles: Results from agnostic identification on monetary policy and exchange rates. Journal of International Economics 76:1, 1-13. [Crossref]
308. Momtchil Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2008. Do Professional Currency Managers Beat the Benchmark?. Financial Analysts Journal 64:5, 18-32. [Crossref]

309. Avik Chakraborty, George W. Evans. 2008. Can perpetual learning explain the forward-premium puzzle?. Journal of Monetary Economics 55:3, 477-490. [Crossref]
310. Julian di Giovanni, Jay C. Shambaugh. 2008. The impact of foreign interest rates on the economy: The role of the exchange rate regime. Journal of International Economics 74:2, 341-361. [Crossref]
311. Ron Jongen, Willem F.C. Verschoor, Christian C.P. Wolff. 2008. FOREIGN EXCHANGE RATE EXPECTATIONS: SURVEY AND SYNTHESIS. Journal of Economic Surveys 22:1, 140-165. [Crossref]
312. Stefan Reitz, Mark P. Taylor. 2008. The coordination channel of foreign exchange intervention: A nonlinear microstructural analysis. European Economic Review 52:1, 55-76. [Crossref]
313. Jean Boivin, Marc P. Giannoni, Benoît Mojon. 2008. How Has the Euro Changed the Monetary Transmission Mechanism?. NBER Macroeconomics Annual 23:1, 77-126. [Crossref]
314. Markus K. Brunnermeier, Stefan Nagel, Lasse H. Pedersen. 2008. Carry Trades and Currency Crashes. NBER Macroeconomics Annual 23:1, 313-348. [Crossref]
315. Craig Burnside. 2008. Comment. NBER Macroeconomics Annual 23:1, 349-360. [Crossref]
316. Hanno Lustig, Adrien Verdelhan. 2008. Comment. NBER Macroeconomics Annual 23:1, 361-384. [Crossref]
317. Piet M. F. A. Sercu, Fang Liu. 2008. The Forward Puzzle: the Roles of Exchange-Rate Regime and Base-Currency Strength. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
318. Bruno Ducoudre. 2008. Term Structure of Interest Rates and Expectations of Economic Policy (Structure Par Terme Des Taux D'Interet Et Anticipations De La Politique Economique). SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
319. John A. Carlson, Christian Dahl, Carol L. Osler. 2008. Short-Run Exchange-Rate Dynamics: Theory and Evidence. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
320. Mark P. Taylor, Stefan Reitz. 2008. Japanese and Federal Reserve Intervention in the Yen-US Dollar Market: A Coordination Channel of FX Operations?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
321. Mark P. Taylor, Jan C. Ruelke, Stefan Reitz. 2008. The Coordination Channel of Foreign Exchange Intervention: The Australian Case. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
322. Momtchil T. Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2008. Trades of the Living Dead: Style Differences, Style Persistence and Performance of Currency Fund Managers. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
323. Hafedh Bouakez, Michel Normandin. 2008. Fluctuations in the Foreign Exchange Market: How Important are Monetary Policy Shocks?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
324. Emmanuel Farhi. 2008. Rare Disasters and Exchange Rates. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
325. Roberta Colavecchio. 2008. The Carry Trade and The Adjustment of the Japanese Yen: Evidence from a Markov-Switching Vector Autoregression Model. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
326. Christian Wagner. 2008. Risk-Premia, Carry-Trade Dynamics, and Economic Value of Currency Speculation. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
327. Sarantis Kalyvitis, Ifigenia Skotida. 2008. Some empirical evidence on the effects of U.S. monetary policy shocks on cross exchange rates. SSRN Electronic Journal 82. . [Crossref]
328. John F.O. Bilson, Deborah Cernauskas. 2007. Currency and credit markets. Journal of International Money and Finance 26:7, 1187-1205. [Crossref]
329. Geert Bekaert, Min Wei, Yuhang Xing. 2007. Uncovered interest rate parity and the term structure. Journal of International Money and Finance 26:6, 1038-1069. [Crossref]
330. Hiro Ito, Menzie Chinn. 2007. PRICE-BASED MEASUREMENT OF FINANCIAL GLOBALIZATION: A CROSS-COUNTRY STUDY OF INTEREST RATE PARITY. Pacific Economic Review 12:4, 419-444. [Crossref]

331. Nelson C. Mark, Young-Kyu Moh. 2007. Official interventions and the forward premium anomaly. Journal of Empirical Finance 14:4, 499-522. [Crossref]
332. Jaehun Chung, Yongmiao Hong. 2007. Model-free evaluation of directional predictability in foreign exchange markets. Journal of Applied Econometrics 22:5, 855-889. [Crossref]
333. . References 405-439. [Crossref]
334. Denis Kan, B. Andreosso-O'Callaghan. 2007. Examination of the efficient market hypothesis—the case of post-crisis Asia Pacific countries. Journal of Asian Economics 18:2, 294-313. [Crossref]
335. Arielle Beyaert, José García-Solanes, Juan J. Pérez-Castejón. 2007. Uncovered interest parity with switching regimes. Economic Modelling 24:2, 189-202. [Crossref]
336. JONATHAN KEARNS. 2007. Commodity Currencies: Why Are Exchange Rate Futures Biased if Commodity Futures Are Not?*. Economic Record 83:260, 60-73. [Crossref]
337. Markus Leippold, Liuren Wu. 2007. Design and Estimation of Multi-Currency Quadratic Models*. Review of Finance 11:2, 167-207. [Crossref]
338. Piet M. F. A. Sercu, Fang Liu. 2007. The Forex Forward Puzzle: The Career Risk Hypothesis. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
339. Momtchil T. Pojarliev. 2007. Trading the Forward Rate Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
340. Momtchil T. Pojarliev, Richard M. Levich. 2007. Do Professional Currency Managers Beat the Benchmark?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
341. Jakub W. Jurek. 2007. Crash-Neutral Currency Carry Trades. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
342. Matthew R. McBrady, Sandra Mortal, Michael J. Schill. 2007. Do Firms Believe in Interest Rate Parity?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
343. Markus Hochradl, Christian Wagner. 2007. Trading the Forward Bias: Are There Limits to Speculation?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
344. Kerstin Bernoth, Jürgen von Hagen, Casper G. de Vries. 2007. The Forward Premium Puzzle Only Emerges Gradually. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
345. Young-Kyu Moh. 2006. Continuous-time model of uncovered interest parity with regulated jump-diffusion interest differential. Applied Economics 38:21, 2523-2533. [Crossref]
346. Andrea Carriero. 2006. Explaining US-UK Interest Rate Differentials: A Reassessment of the Uncovered Interest Rate Parity in a Bayesian Framework*. Oxford Bulletin of Economics and Statistics 68, 879-899. [Crossref]
347. Kun Yang, Mototsugu Shintani. 2006. Does the prediction horizon matter for the forward premium anomaly? Evidence from panel data. Economics Letters 93:2, 255-260. [Crossref]
348. Piet Sercu, Tom Vinaimont. 2006. The forward bias in the ECU: Peso risks vs. fads and fashions. Journal of Banking & Finance 30:8, 2409-2432. [Crossref]
349. Aditya Kaul, Stephen Sapp. 2006. Y2K fears and safe haven trading of the U.S. dollar. Journal of International Money and Finance 25:5, 760-779. [Crossref]
350. Kleopatra Nikolaou, Lucio Sarno. 2006. New evidence on the forward unbiasedness hypothesis in the foreign-exchange market. Journal of Futures Markets 26:7, 627-656. [Crossref]
351. Christoph Sax. 2006. Interest Rates and Exchange Rate Movements: Analyzing Short-term Investments in Long-term Bonds. Financial Markets and Portfolio Management 20:2, 205-220. [Crossref]
352. Neil Dias Karunaratne. 2006. The New Economy and The Dollar Puzzle. Economic Analysis and Policy 36:1-2, 25-43. [Crossref]
353. Richard T. Baillie, Rehim Kiliç. 2006. Do asymmetric and nonlinear adjustments explain the forward premium anomaly?. Journal of International Money and Finance 25:1, 22-47. [Crossref]

354. Menzie D. Chinn. 2006. The (partial) rehabilitation of interest rate parity in the floating rate era: Longer horizons, alternative expectations, and emerging markets. Journal of International Money and Finance 25:1, 7-21. [Crossref]
355. Thomas C. Chiang. International parity conditions and market risk 344-358. [Crossref]
356. . References 775-814. [Crossref]
357. Lucio Sarno, Giorgio Valente, Hyginus Leon. 2006. Nonlinearity in Deviations from Uncovered Interest Parity: An Explanation of the Forward Bias Puzzle. Review of Finance 10:3, 443-482. [Crossref]
358. Graham Elliott. Chapter 11 Forecasting with Trending Data 555-604. [Crossref]
359. Philippe Bacchetta, Eric van Wincoop. 2006. Incomplete Information Processing: A Solution to the Forward Discount Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal 94. . [Crossref]
360. Jing Liu. 2006. On International Accounting Valuation. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
361. Guillaume Plantin, Hyun Song Shin. 2006. Carry Trades and Speculative Dynamics. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
362. Byung-Joo Lee. 2006. Uncovered Interest Parity Puzzle: Cross-sectional and Time-series Analysis. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
363. Evzen Kocenda, Tigran Poghosyan. 2006. Foreign Exchange Risk Premium Determinants: Case of Armenia. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
364. Matthew R. McBrady, Michael J. Schill. 2006. Foreign Currency Denominated Borrowing in the Absence of Operating Incentives. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
365. Marek Capinski, Wiktor Patena. 2006. Predicting Exchange Rates via a Futures Market. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
366. Jing Liu. 2006. On International Accounting Valuation. Journal of International Accounting Research 5:1, 67-87. [Crossref]
367. Julian di Giovanni, Jay C. Shambaugh. 2006. The Impact of Foreign Interest Rates on the Economy: The Role of the Exchange Rate Regime. IMF Working Papers 06:37, 1. [Crossref]
368. Giorgio Valente, H. L. Leon, Lucio Sarno. 2006. Nonlinearity in Deviations From Uncovered Interest Parity: An Explanation of the Forward Bias Puzzle. IMF Working Papers 06:136, 1. [Crossref]
369. Michael G. Papaioannou. 2006. Exchange Rate Risk Measurement and Management: Issues and Approaches for Firms. IMF Working Papers 06:255, 1. [Crossref]
370. Philippe Bacchetta, Elmar Mertens, Eric van Wincoop. 2006. Predictability in Financial Markets: What do Survey Expectations Tell Us?. SSRN Electronic Journal 34. . [Crossref]
371. Carol L. Osler. 2006. Macro lessons from microstructure. International Journal of Finance & Economics 11:1, 55-80. [Crossref]
372. Piet Sercu, Martina Vandebroek. 2005. What UIP tests on extreme samples reveal about the missing variable. Journal of International Money and Finance 24:8, 1237-1260. [Crossref]
373. Momtchil Pojarliev. 2005. Performance of Currency Trading Strategies in Developed and Emerging Markets: Some Striking Differences. Financial Markets and Portfolio Management 19:3, 297-311. [Crossref]
374. Lucio Sarno. 2005. Viewpoint: Towards a solution to the puzzles in exchange rate economics: where do we stand?. Canadian Journal of Economics/Revue canadienne d'économie 38:3, 673-708. [Crossref]
375. Alain P. Chaboud, Jonathan H. Wright. 2005. Uncovered interest parity: it works, but not for long. Journal of International Economics 66:2, 349-362. [Crossref]
376. Kai Leitemo, Ulf Söderström. 2005. Simple monetary policy rules and exchange rate uncertainty. Journal of International Money and Finance 24:3, 481-507. [Crossref]

377. TAKATOSHI ITO. 2005. THE EXCHANGE RATE IN THE JAPANESE ECONOMY: THE PAST, PUZZLES, AND PROSPECTS*. The Japanese Economic Review 56:1, 1-38. [Crossref]
378. Giorgio Valente, Lucio Sarno, Hyginus L. Leon. 2005. The Forward Bias Puzzle and Nonlinearity in Deviations from Uncovered Interest Parity: A New Perspective. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
379. Matthew R. McBrady. 2005. Carry Traders, Dealers, and the Forward Discount Anomaly. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
380. Philippe Bacchetta, Eric van Wincoop. 2005. Rational Inattention: A Solution to the Forward Discount Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
381. Carol L. Osler. 2005. Macro Lessons from Microstructure. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
382. Charalambos Christofides, Atish Ghosh, Uma Ramakrishnan, Alun Thomas, Laura Papi, Juan Zaldueño, Jun Kim. The Design of IMF-Supported Programs . [Crossref]
383. Bruce Felmingham, SuSan Leong. 2005. Parity conditions and the efficiency of the Australian 90- and 180-day forward markets. Review of Financial Economics 14:2, 127-145. [Crossref]
384. Joseph E. Gagnon, Jane Ihrig. 2004. Monetary policy and exchange rate pass-through. International Journal of Finance & Economics 9:4, 315-338. [Crossref]
385. Peter Englund, Åke Gunnelin, Martin Hoesli, Bo Söderberg. 2004. Implicit Forward Rents as Predictors of Future Rents. Real Estate Economics 32:2, 183-215. [Crossref]
386. Marc W. Simpson, Sanjay Ramchander. 2004. The Informational Content of Consumer Expectations on the Direction of Exchange Rate Movements. American Journal of Business 19:1, 31-36. [Crossref]
387. Brian J. Henderson, Narasimhan Jegadeesh, Michael S. Weisbach. 2004. World Markets for Raising New Capital. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
388. Jose Ramon Martinez Resano. 2004. Central Bank Financial Independence. SSRN Electronic Journal 61. . [Crossref]
389. John Y. Campbell, Luis M. Viceira, Joshua S. White. 2003. Foreign currency for long-term investors. The Economic Journal 113:486, C1-C25. [Crossref]
390. Francesco Nucci. 2003. Cross-currency, cross-maturity forward exchange premiums as predictors of spot rate changes: Theory and evidence. Journal of Banking & Finance 27:2, 183-200. [Crossref]
391. Stuart Landon, Constance E. Smith. 2003. The Risk Premium, Exchange Rate Expectations, and the Forward Exchange Rate: Estimates for the Yen-Dollar Rate. Review of International Economics 11:1, 144-158. [Crossref]
392. G. Andrew Karolyi, René M. Stulz. Chapter 16 Are financial assets priced locally or globally? 975-1020. [Crossref]
393. Peter Bofinger, Eric Mayer, Timo Wollmershaeuser. 2003. The BMW Model: Simple Macroeconomics for Closed and Open Economies - A Requiem for the IS/LM-AS/AD and the Mundell-Fleming Model. SSRN Electronic Journal 23. . [Crossref]
394. Rita Madarassy Akin, Menzie David Chinn. 2003. Free to Flow? New Results on Capital Mobility Amongst the Developed Countries. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
395. Martin Edward Ralph Hoesli, Peter Englund, Ake Gunnelin, Bo Soederberg. 2003. Implicit Forward Rents as Predictors of Future Rents. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
396. Bing NMI2 Han, Peter J. Hammond. 2003. Affine Models of the Joint Dynamics of Exchange Rates and Interest Rates. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
397. Brad Jones. 2003. Violations of Uncovered Interest Parity: Are They Pervasive, and are They a Money Tree. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
398. Piet Sercu, Martina L. Vandebroek. 2003. What UIP Tests on Extreme Samples Reveal About the Missing Variable. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]

399. Lucio Sarno, Giorgio Valente, Hyginus L. Leon. 2003. Limits to Speculation and Nonlinearity in Deviations from Uncovered Interest Parity: Empirical Evidence and Implications for the Forward Bias Puzzle. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
400. Markus Leippold, Liuren Wu. 2003. Design and Estimation of Multi-Currency Quadratic Models. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
401. Scott W. Barnhart, Robert McNown, Myles S. Wallace. 2002. Some answers to puzzles in testing unbiasedness in the foreign exchange market. Applied Financial Economics 12:10, 687-696. [Crossref]
402. W.A. Razzak. 2002. The forward rate unbiasedness hypothesis revisited. International Journal of Finance & Economics 7:4, 293-308. [Crossref]
403. Samih Antoine Azar. 2002. Predictability of stock returns: is it rational?. Applied Financial Economics 12:8, 575-580. [Crossref]
404. Giancarlo Gandolfo. International Interest-Rate Parity Conditions 43-52. [Crossref]
405. Menzie David Chinn, Guy Meredith. 2002. Testing Uncovered Interest Parity at Short and Long Horizons during the Post-Bretton Woods Era. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
406. Nelson C. Mark, Young-Kyu Moh. 2002. Continuous-Time Market Dynamics, ARCH Effects, and the Forward Premium Anomaly. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
407. Guy Meredith, Yue Ma. 2002. The Forward Premium Puzzle Revisited. IMF Working Papers 02:28, 1. [Crossref]
408. Alexis Derviz. 2002. The uncovered parity properties of the czech koruna. Prague Economic Papers 11:1, 17-37. [Crossref]
409. Foort Hamelink. 2001. Nonlinear analysis for forecasting currencies: are they useful to the portfolio manager?. The European Journal of Finance 7:4, 335-355. [Crossref]
410. Willem F.C Verschoor, Christian C.P Wolff. 2001. Scandinavian forward discount bias risk premia. Economics Letters 73:1, 65-72. [Crossref]
411. Christos Kollias, Kostantinos Metaxas. 2001. How efficient are FX markets? Empirical evidence of arbitrage opportunities using high-frequency data. Applied Financial Economics 11:4, 435-444. [Crossref]
412. Willem F.C Verschoor, Christian C.P Wolff. 2001. Exchange risk premia, expectations formation and "news" in the Mexican peso/U.S. dollar forward exchange rate market. International Review of Financial Analysis 10:2, 157-174. [Crossref]
413. Matthew R. Morey, Marc W. Simpson. 2001. Predicting Foreign Exchange Directional Moves. The Journal of Investing 10:1, 43-51. [Crossref]
414. David S. Bieri. 2001. Central Bank Intervention and Risk Premia in Foreign Exchange Markets: Evidence of Daily Effects: Switzerland 1986-1995. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
415. Peter Bofinger, Timo Wollmershaeuser. 2001. Managed Floating: Understanding the New International Monetary Order. SSRN Electronic Journal 2 . [Crossref]
416. George Andrew Karolyi, René M. Stulz. 2001. Are Financial Assets Priced Locally or Globally?. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
417. Andrew K. Rose, Robert P. Flood. 2001. Uncovered Interest Parity in Crisis: The Interest Rate Defense in the 1990's. IMF Working Papers 01:207, 1. [Crossref]
418. Walid Hejazi, Michael Marr, Jack Parkinson. 2000. Cointegration and Canada-U.S. Term Structures: Does Accounting for Structural Breaks Make a Difference?. Canadian Journal of Administrative Sciences / Revue Canadienne des Sciences de l'Administration 17:4, 342-355. [Crossref]

419. Richard T Baillie, William P Osterberg. 2000. Deviations from daily uncovered interest rate parity and the role of intervention. Journal of International Financial Markets, Institutions and Money 10:3-4, 363-379. [Crossref]
420. Richard T. Baillie, Tim Bollerslev. 2000. The forward premium anomaly is not as bad as you think. Journal of International Money and Finance 19:4, 471-488. [Crossref]
421. Janice Boucher Breuer. 2000. Term effects and the time-varying risk premium in tests of forward foreign exchange rate unbiasedness. International Journal of Finance & Economics 5:3, 211-220. [Crossref]
422. Soyoung Kim, Nouriel Roubini. 2000. Exchange rate anomalies in the industrial countries: A solution with a structural VAR approach. Journal of Monetary Economics 45:3, 561-586. [Crossref]
423. Piet Sercu, Xueping Wu. 2000. Cross- and delta-hedges: Regression- versus price-based hedge ratios. Journal of Banking & Finance 24:5, 735-757. [Crossref]
424. Taro Esaka. 2000. The Louvre Accord and central bank intervention: was there a target zone?. Japan and the World Economy 12:2, 107-126. [Crossref]
425. . Arguments for Protection and the Political Economy of Trade Policy . [Crossref]
426. Peter Bofinger, Timo Wollmershaeuser. 2000. Monetary Policy and Exchange Rate Targeting in Open Economies. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
427. Menzie David Chinn, Guy Meredith. 2000. Testing Uncovered Interest Parity at Short and Long Horizons. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
428. Tetsuya Konuki. 2000. The Effects of Monetary and Fiscal Policy on Aggregate Demand in a Small Open Economy: An Application of the Structural Error Correction Model. IMF Working Papers 00:165, 1. [Crossref]
429. Steinar Holden, Dag Kolsrud. 1999. Noisy signals in target zone regimes:. European Economic Review 43:8, 1531-1567. [Crossref]
430. Testuya Konuki. 1999. Measuring noise in exchange rate models. Journal of International Economics 48:2, 255-270. [Crossref]
431. Janice Boucher Breuer. 1999. Day-of-week effects in tests of forward foreign exchange rate unbiasedness. International Journal of Finance & Economics 4:3, 193-204. [Crossref]
432. Ronald MacDonald, Ian Marsh. Spot and Forward Market Relationships 9-48. [Crossref]
433. Piet Sercu, Xueping Wu. 1999. Cross and Delta-Hedges: Regression versus Price-Based Hedge Ratios. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
434. John A. Carlson, Carol L. Osler. 1999. Determinants of Currency Risk Premiums. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
435. Norman C. Miller. 1999. Explaining Foreign Exchange Market Puzzles. IMF Working Papers 99:27, 1. [Crossref]
436. Robert J. Shiller. Chapter 20 Human behavior and the efficiency of the financial system 1305-1340. [Crossref]
437. Kerk L. Phillips, Karl Snow. 1998. The forward bias: is it a money tree?. Economics Letters 61:3, 373-379. [Crossref]
438. Harry Garretsen, Klaas Knot, Erwin Nijse. 1998. Learning about fundamentals: The widening of the French ERM bands in 1993. Weltwirtschaftliches Archiv 134:1, 25-41. [Crossref]
439. Jaewoo Lee. 1998. Intertemporal substitution in imported durables. Journal of International Economics 44:1, 113-133. [Crossref]

440. Paul Newbold, Mark E. Wohar, Tony Rayner, Neil Kellard, Christine Ennew. 1998. Two puzzles in the analysis of foreign exchange market efficiency. International Review of Financial Analysis 7:2, 95-111. [Crossref]
441. Michael E. Parker, Tammy Rapp. 1998. AN EMPIRICAL INVESTIGATION OF THE COMOVEMENT BETWEEN STOCK MARKET INDEXES. Studies in Economics and Finance 19:1/2, 108-122. [Crossref]
442. Mordecai Kurz. 1998. Endogenous Uncertainty: A Unified View of Market Volatility. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
443. Eric Girardin, Vélouydom Marimoutou. 1997. Estimating the credibility of an exchange rate target zone. Journal of International Money and Finance 16:6, 931-944. [Crossref]
444. Giuseppe De Arcangelis, Giancarlo Gandolfo. 1997. Nonlinear phenomena in economics: The exchange rate. Nonlinear Analysis: Theory, Methods & Applications 30:2, 1043-1049. [Crossref]
445. BURTON HOLLIFIELD, RAMAN UPPAL. 1997. An Examination of Uncovered Interest Rate Parity in Segmented International Commodity Markets. The Journal of Finance 52:5, 2145-2170. [Crossref]
446. Rita Biswas, Hany A. Shawky. 1997. Foreign exchange market efficiency: Evidence from the Gulf War period. Global Finance Journal 8:2, 199-210. [Crossref]
447. Richard H. Clarida, Mark P. Taylor. 1997. The Term Structure of Forward Exchange Premiums and the Forecastability of Spot Exchange Rates: Correcting the Errors. Review of Economics and Statistics 79:3, 353-361. [Crossref]
448. Antti Hakkarainen, Eero Kasanen, Vesa Puttonen. 1997. Foreign Exchange Risk Management: Evidence from Finland. Managerial Finance 23:7, 25-44. [Crossref]
449. Nicos M. Christodoulakis, Sarantis C. Kalyvitis. 1997. Efficiency testing revisited: a foreign exchange market with Bayesian learning. Journal of International Money and Finance 16:3, 367-385. [Crossref]
450. Richard C. Marston. 1997. Tests of three parity conditions: Distinguishing risk premia and systematic forecast errors. Journal of International Money and Finance 16:2, 285-303. [Crossref]
451. Antoine Frachot. 1996. A reexamination of the uncovered interest rate parity hypothesis. Journal of International Money and Finance 15:3, 419-437. [Crossref]
452. Charles Engel. 1996. The forward discount anomaly and the risk premium: A survey of recent evidence. Journal of Empirical Finance 3:2, 123-192. [Crossref]
453. Vivek Moorthy. 1996. Predictable and profitable price patterns: Evidence from US interest rates. Economics Letters 51:1, 101-107. [Crossref]
454. Erik Strojger Madsen. 1996. Inefficiency of foreign exchange markets and expectations: survey evidence. Applied Economics 28:4, 397-403. [Crossref]
455. Yangru Wu, Hua Zhang. 1996. Asymmetry in forward exchange rate bias: A puzzling result. Economics Letters 50:3, 407-411. [Crossref]
456. David S. Bates. 1996. Dollar jump fears, 1984-1992: distributional abnormalities implicit in currency futures options. Journal of International Money and Finance 15:1, 65-93. [Crossref]
457. Elmar Steurer. Wechselkursprognose: Fehlerkorrekturmodelle im Vergleich mit Neuronalen Netzen 85-120. [Crossref]
458. Christian Dreger. Effiziente Märkte und Random Walk-Modell des Wechselkurses 7-39. [Crossref]
459. David S. Bates. 20 Testing option pricing models 567-611. [Crossref]
460. David S. Bates. 1996. Jumps and Stochastic Volatility: Exchange Rate Processes Implicit in Deutsche Mark Options. Review of Financial Studies 9:1, 69-107. [Crossref]

461. Joachim Zietz. 1995. A note on tests of efficient market hypotheses: The case of the forward exchange rate. Atlantic Economic Journal 23:4, 310-317. [Crossref]
462. Rolf Schwier. 1995. Exchange rate uncertainty and the efficiency of the forward market for foreign exchange: A comment. Review of World Economics 131:4, 783-788. [Crossref]
463. Jilleen R. Westbrook. 1995. Does exchange rate pegging enhance credibility? Evidence from the European Monetary System. Applied Economics 27:12, 1153-1166. [Crossref]
464. J. Shaw, E. O. Thorp, W. T. Ziemba. 1995. Risk arbitrage in the Nikkei put warrant market of 1989-1990. Applied Mathematical Finance 2:4, 243-272. [Crossref]
465. DAVID W. R. GRUEN, GORDON D. MENZIES. 1995. Forward Discount Bias: Is it Near-Rationality in the Foreign Exchange Market?*. Economic Record 71:2, 157-166. [Crossref]
466. Klaas Knot, Jakob de Haan. 1995. Interest rate differentials and exchange rate policies in Austria, The Netherlands, and Belgium. Journal of Banking & Finance 19:2, 363-386. [Crossref]
467. Norman C. Miller. 1995. Towards a loanable funds/amended-liquidity preference theory of the exchange rate and interest rate. Journal of International Money and Finance 14:2, 225-245. [Crossref]
468. John H. Rogers, Ping Wang. 1995. Output, inflation, and stabilization in a small open economy: Evidence from Mexico. Journal of Development Economics 46:2, 271-293. [Crossref]
469. Andrew K. Rose, Lars E. O. Svensson. Macroeconomic and Political Determinants of Realignment Expectations: Some European Evidence 91-117. [Crossref]
470. John M. Mulvey, William T. Ziemba. Chapter 15 Asset and liability allocation in a global environment 435-463. [Crossref]
471. Jeffrey A. Frankel, Andrew K. Rose. Chapter 33 Empirical research on nominal exchange rates 1689-1729. [Crossref]
472. Peter M. Garber, Lars E.O. Svensson. Chapter 36 The operation and collapse of fixed exchange rate regimes 1865-1911. [Crossref]
473. Karen K. Lewis. Chapter 37 Puzzles in international financial markets 1913-1971. [Crossref]
474. DAVID W. R. GRUEN, JEREMY SMITH. 1994. Excess Returns in a Small Open Economy*. Economic Record 70:211, 381-396. [Crossref]
475. Joachim Zietz, Ghassem Homaifar. 1994. Exchange rate uncertainty and the efficiency of the forward market for foreign exchange. Review of World Economics 130:3, 461-475. [Crossref]
476. Andrew K. Rose, Lars E.O. Svensson. 1994. European exchange rate credibility before the fall. European Economic Review 38:6, 1185-1216. [Crossref]
477. Hendrik Bessembinder. 1994. Bid-ask spreads in the interbank foreign exchange markets. Journal of Financial Economics 35:3, 317-348. [Crossref]
478. William T. Ziemba. 1994. World wide security market regularities. European Journal of Operational Research 74:2, 198-229. [Crossref]
479. Bennett T. McCallum. 1994. A reconsideration of the uncovered interest parity relationship. Journal of Monetary Economics 33:1, 105-132. [Crossref]
480. Steven R. Beckman. 1994. A rational foundation for wishful exchange rate forecasts. International Review of Economics & Finance 3:4, 393-398. [Crossref]
481. Vivek Moorthy. 1994. Predictable and Profitable Price Patterns: Evidence from U.S. Interest Rates. SSRN Electronic Journal . [Crossref]
482. Peter Isard. 1994. Realignment Expectations, Forward Rate Bias, and Sterilized Intervention in an Adjustable Peg Exchange Rate Model with Policy Optimization. IMF Working Papers 94:20, 1. [Crossref]

483. DAVID K. BACKUS, ALLAN W. GREGORY, CHRIS I. TELMER. 1993. Accounting for Forward Rates in Markets for Foreign Currency. The Journal of Finance 48:5, 1887-1908. [Crossref]
484. Richard M. Levich, Lee R. Thomas. 1993. The significance of technical trading-rule profits in the foreign exchange market: a bootstrap approach. Journal of International Money and Finance 12:5, 451-474. [Crossref]
485. Jeffrey A. Frankel, Menzie D. Chinn. 1993. Exchange Rate Expectations and the Risk Premium: Tests For A Cross Section of 17 Currencies*. Review of International Economics 1:2, 136-144. [Crossref]
486. Lars E.O. Svensson. 1993. Assessing target zone credibility. European Economic Review 37:4, 763-793. [Crossref]
487. Yin-Wong Cheng. 1993. Exchange rate risk premiums. Journal of International Money and Finance 12:2, 182-194. [Crossref]
488. Geert Bekaert, Robert J. Hodrick. 1993. On biases in the measurement of foreign exchange risk premiums. Journal of International Money and Finance 12:2, 115-138. [Crossref]
489. Stefano Cavaglia, Willem F.C. Verschoor, Christian C.P. Wolff. 1993. Further evidence on exchange rate expectations. Journal of International Money and Finance 12:1, 78-98. [Crossref]
490. Philip Halpern. 1993. Investing Abroad. The Journal of Portfolio Management 19:2, 47-57. [Crossref]
491. Richard C. Marston. Three Parity Conditions in International Finance 257-271. [Crossref]
492. Alun H. Thomas. 1993. Expected Devaluation and Economic Fundamentals. IMF Working Papers 93:83, 1. [Crossref]
493. Robert J. Vandenberg, Jai Hyun Seo. 1992. Placing recruiting effectiveness in perspective: A cognitive explication of the job-choice and organizational-entry period. Human Resource Management Review 2:4, 239-273. [Crossref]
494. Lars E. O. Svensson. 1992. An Interpretation of Recent Research on Exchange Rate Target Zones. Journal of Economic Perspectives 6:4, 119-144. [Abstract] [View PDF article] [PDF with links]
495. Lars E.O. Svensson. 1992. The foreign exchange risk premium in a target zone with devaluation risk. Journal of International Economics 33:1-2, 21-40. [Crossref]
496. GEERT BEKAERT, ROBERT J. HODRICK. 1992. Characterizing Predictable Components in Excess Returns on Equity and Foreign Exchange Markets. The Journal of Finance 47:2, 467-509. [Crossref]
497. Sami Geadah, Lars E. O. Svensson, Tapio Saavalainen. 1992. The Credibility of Nordic Exchange Rate Bands: 1987-1991. IMF Working Papers 92:03, 1. [Crossref]
498. Robert P. Flood, Andrew K. Rose, Donald J. Mathieson. 1991. An empirical exploration of exchange-rate target-zones. Carnegie-Rochester Conference Series on Public Policy 35, 7-65. [Crossref]
499. Donald J. Mathieson, Robert P. Flood, Andrew K. Rose. 1991. An Empirical Exploration of Exchange Rate Target-Zones. IMF Working Papers 91:15, 1. [Crossref]
500. Lazaros E. Molho. 1991. The Italian Lira in the Narrow Erm Band: The Challenge of Credibility. IMF Working Papers 91:19, i. [Crossref]
501. Vincent Koen. 1991. Testing the Credibility of the Belgian Hard Currency Policy. IMF Working Papers 91:79, 1. [Crossref]